

Sirica orders Grand Jury report on Nixon to panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Judge John J. Sirica today ordered that a secret grand jury report on President Nixon's handling of Watergate be turned over to the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

Sirica ordered a two-day stay in turning the report over to permit "whatever appellate review may be available."

"Having carefully examined the contents of the grand jury report, the court is satisfied that there can be no question regarding their materiality to the House Judiciary Committee's investigation," Sirica said.

"Beyond materiality, of course, it is the committee's responsibility to determine the significance of the evidence, and the court offers no opinion as to relevance."

The committee had requested the secret report so it can use whatever evidence the grand jury had uncovered in its inquiry into whether Nixon has been involved in impeachable offenses. The White House did not contest Sirica's right to turn the material over to the committee.

Sirica's 22-page ruling said that the two questions he had considered were: "Whether the grand jury has power to make reports and recommendations," and "whether the court has power to disclose such reports, and if so, to what extent."

In his ruling, Sirica did not indicate what the secret report contained. But he noted that President Nixon "does not object to release" of the report.

Sirica, tracing the history of the grand jury, said the panel first was "wholly a creature of the crown," but the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution gave "institutional status" to grand juries.

"Having considered the cases and historical precedents, and noting the absence of a contrary rule in this circuit, it seems to the court that it would be unjustified in holding that the grand jury was without authority to hand up this report," Sirica said.

He said the grand jury "has obviously taken care to assure that its report contains no objectionable features, and has throughout acted in the interests of fairness."

A Watergate grand jury gave the report to Sirica March 1 at the same time it indicted seven former close associates of the President on charges of conspiracy in the Watergate coverup.

Sources have said the report deals with the President's handling of Watergate, and that the grand jury requested it be given the House Judiciary Committee for its inquiry into whether grounds exist for impeachment.

James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, told Sirica: "Whatever you decide to do with it is quite appropriate from our point of view."

But John J. Wilson, the attorney for former Nixon top aides H.R. Heldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, argued vigorously against the material being given the impeachment inquiry.

He said the report was "wholly illegal and improper," and predicted that if it were sent to Capitol Hill the contents would be leaked immediately to reporters.

"Don't you think the President has a

Seven Arab nations lift oil embargo

A COLD DAY FOR THE IRISH

The weather made Montreal's St. Patrick's Day parade more like an arctic expedition, but the spirit of the Irish helped carry the day. For one Black Watch band member, though, the wind howling at St. Catherine and Stanley streets not only drowned out the skirl of his pipes, but also left him in a rather embarrassing position.

Libya, Syria refuse to end five-month cutoff

VIENNA (UPI) — Seven of the Arab world's nine major oil-producing nations have unconditionally lifted their five-month-old oil embargo against the United States, Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said today.

Libya and Syria refused to go along.

"Seven countries have lifted the embargo unconditionally. Libya and Syria will not lift the embargo," Yamani told newsmen after a meeting of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The nations lifting the embargo are Abu Dhabi, Algeria, Bahrain, Egypt, Kuwait, Qatar, and Saudi Arabia, Yamani said.

The action followed talks today after an inconclusive meeting Sunday at which the oil ministers could not agree.

The oil ministers met in Tripoli, Libya, last Wednesday to study lifting the embargo, but extended the talks until Sunday despite reports by diplomatic sources of an agreement to end the ban.

The Algerian Press Service said Sunday an Algerian proposal to lift the embargo for a temporary, two-month period was overruled by Egypt and Saudi Arabia who favor a complete end to the ban.

Ministers avoided newsmen after Sunday's talks by using a side exit to slip out of the tapestry-hung conference room at Vienna's century-old Imperial Hotel.

Nine Arab oil nations taking part in the embargo—Abu Dhabi, Algeria, Bahrain, Egypt, Kuwait, Libya, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and Syria—were at the meeting.

The countries cut oil supplies to America, which depends on the Middle East for eight per cent of its total fuel needs, in retaliation for U.S. support of Israel during the 1973 Middle East War.

Also meeting in Vienna Sunday were oil ministers of the worldwide Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), which decided to freeze the price of crude oil at the current level for another three months.

OPEC members included the Arabs as well as Ecuador, Indonesia, Iran, Nigeria and Venezuela.

TO RELINQUISH POST

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica will celebrate his 70th birthday Tuesday and therefore must relinquish the post of chief judge. Sirica has made it known he would remain as an active judge rather than become a senior judge with fewer cases or retiring.

Fog, drizzles to visit valley

A deep marine cloud layer lingering over most of Southern California may bring fog and drizzles to areas of Pomona Valley tonight.

The sun may peek through at times during the afternoon today and Tuesday but for the most part Pomona Valley will have gloomy weather until the clouds clear from the area Wednesday.

A brighter outlook for sunny and warmer weather is expected Thursday and Friday, according to the National Weather Service forecaster.

A high of 70 degrees is forecast for both today and Tuesday after a low of 50 degrees. Sunday's high reached 79 degrees.

The San Bernardino County Air Pollution Control District forecast light smog for West end communities today with zone levels of .15 to .20 parts per million.

But it was a smoggy day Sunday when Upland had a peak reading of .33 ppm, coupled with near 80-degree heat.

The Los Angeles APCD forecast moderate smog for Pomona today with ozone levels of .25 to .30 ppm. The peak reading in Pomona Sunday was .24 ppm.

A spokesman at the Los Angeles APCD said the smog level has been high the past few days because of the moisture in the air. He said the ozone adheres to moisture.

Supreme Court will take up California prisoner's plea

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court agreed unanimously Monday to hear the case of a California prisoner who contends that the right to act as his own attorney is "absolutely guaranteed" by the Constitution.

The case involves a grand theft conviction against Anthony Faretta, an inmate at Soledad Prison in California, who was denied self-representation because the court believed he lacked legal education and experience to defend himself.

Faretta argued the right to defend one's self—and refuse court-appointed representation—was guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment and extended to the states under the "due process" and "equal protection" clauses of the 14th Amendment.

To deny someone the right to defend himself, Faretta said, "offends not only due process of law but flies into the very face...of the Sixth Amendment."

The state of California, arguing against the high court hearing the case, had contended the right to legal self-defense was not "absolute" and was not of constitutional significance.

The state noted that Faretta was given a court-appointed attorney, but that he discharged the attorney in favor of representing himself. The state court reappointed the attorney after Faretta failed to answer several legal questions.

Tourists, not birds new attraction in Graceham, Md.

GRACEHAM, Md. (UPI) — The 400 residents of this tiny Maryland hamlet used to say the chief entertainment around Graceham was going to church on Sundays.

Things changed a few months ago when an estimated 10 million birds came to roost in the nearby pine forest, and their daily flight created a scene some compared to the Hitchcock thriller, "The Birds."

Now townspeople are watching a new spectacle—hundreds of tourists who are journeying here to see firsthand how the redwing blackbirds, starlings and grackles fly to their roost each evening and block out the sunset in a mass of flapping wings.

"It's quite an attraction," said Frederick County Commissioner Donald L. Lewis Sunday. "We've had about 400 or 500 people in this weekend to see the birds."

State Police Sgt. Harry Frost said, "There have been some large crowds watching in the evening when all those birds come home to roost."

"We have men checking the area to help out when things get tied up," he said. "You've got to remember, Graceham is a small community. If they get even 50 cars up there, it's something unusual for them."

One woman resident complained that her home had become a public restaurant and restroom for the birdwatchers visiting town.

The community of Graceham lies just west of the presidential retreat at Camp David situated in the foothills of the Catoctin Mountains. During peak summer months, perhaps as many as 500 tourists may visit the area, but Graceham usually is left unnoticed for the rest of the year.

Experts predict the birds will leave on normal migration patterns during the first or second warm spell. But area officials are concerned that they will devour seeds from spring crop plantings before that time, and say the birds' dropping, three inches deep in some parts of the forest, create a possible hazard of a lung disease.

Commissioner Lewis has asked the military to fly helicopters into the birds' flight patterns in an attempt to scare them off before they voluntarily would leave. Army and National Guard spokesman have indicated they would reject the proposal, but Lewis said he would await a formal decision today.

U.S. will help Egypt clear Suez

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department announced today that the United States "has agreed to assist in sweeping mines in the waters of the Suez Canal" to help speed reopening of the international waterway.

The canal has been closed for almost seven years — since the 1967 Israeli-Arab War. The department said the assistance is being provided "at the request of the Egyptian government."

It added that the United States also had agreed "to provide advice and training to Egyptian personnel responsible for clearing unexploded ordnance in the canal and on its banks."

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said earlier that Egypt had reached agreement with the United States and Britain on a joint operation to clear thousands of bombs and mines from the canal.

The mine clearance work is expected to start early next month by scores of American and British specialists in conjunction with the Egyptian navy and the engineering corps as well as Suez Canal Authority technicians, the sources said.

A team of U.S. Navy and Army demolition specialists made a survey of land and sea mines and other explosives last month at the Canal Authority's request.

The six-member U.S. team who returned home after submitting their report to the authorities, was jointly led by Navy Capt. Eugene Sheehy and army Lt. Col. Vincent Lopresti.

Canal authority officials believe there are thousands of mines and unexploded bombs in and around the canal as a result of more than six years of intermittent Israeli ground and air fighting across the waterway, culminating in last October's war.

Egyptian officials have said they expect the canal to be reopened in October this year and to function at the same level as pre-June 1967, allowing passage of ships up to 70,000 tons.

Sales sagging

U.S. meat prices sliced

Butchers from California to Maine have slashed meat prices 10 to 20 per cent in the past month, hoping to boost sagging sales during a beef surplus and keep many cattlemen from going broke.

The lower prices are expected to go back up after 60 to 90 days, however.

"Across the board, I'd say beef prices have come down 40 cents per pound during the past three weeks," said Donald McKinnon, manager of Cottles Supermarket in Augusta, Maine.

The situation was similar in every other area of the country responding to a United Press International survey, although in most stores prices were lower on particular cuts of beef instead of across-the-board reductions.

Grocery stores in Texas, California, Maine, Washington, Philadelphia, Massachusetts, Illinois and Georgia reported lower meat prices, some down by as much as 70 cents a pound.

Despite the lower prices, grocers did not indicate shoppers have turned in great numbers back to steak and roast beef.

"It's going to take a while for them to find out prices are down and get back into the groove," said John Hester, meat market manager of the HEB Supermarkets in Austin, Tex.

Hester said his store reduced the price of sirloin from $2.04 last week to $1.39 a pound, but roast beef was the same at $1.19 and ground beef held at 95 cents.

"You still hear people say it's too high and walk off," he said. "They ought to go out and try to buy some cow feed or fertilizer."

Cattlemen say beef supplies are now at a surplus because of sluggish consumer demand during the past six months and the marketing disruptions

Oil takeover talk grows in Venezuela

CARACAS (UPI) — Venezuelan opposition parties today took up proposals for immediate nationalization of the nation's giant foreign-owned oil industry in the government-controlled congress.

Three parties are calling for the early takeover of some 5.5 million acres of oilfields and installations valued at almost $5 billion that under current law revert to the nation between 1983 and 1996.

Underpayment of income taxes by Nixon reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Late this month or in early April a congressional committee is expected to report that President Nixon underpaid his taxes during each of his first four years in office.

The report, arriving as millions of people will be computing their own income taxes, is likely to deliver yet another blow to Nixon's prestige.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and vice chairman of the committee conducting the investigation—the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation—says the report is more likely to give Nixon cause to resign than anything that has come out about Watergate.

At the time Nixon made his tax returns public, he said he had handled his finances "in a manner I thought both prudent and in the best interests of my family."

"With regard to my tax returns...the accountants who prepared them listed all of the deductions to which they believed I was entitled and only those deductions—as any accountant would and should do on behalf of his client," Nixon said in a formal statement.

Here are some questions and answers about the investigation into Nixon's tax situation:

Q. Why is the joint committee investigating Nixon's tax payments anyway?

A. The President asked it to. Back on Dec. 8, 1973—during "Operating Candor"—to quiet doubts about his financial integrity, Nixon made public his tax returns for the years 1969 through 1972.

He acknowledged that "questions and controversies" might result from his disclosures. So he asked the committee to study two controversial areas and promised to abide by its rulings, even if that meant paying more taxes.

Q. Who is the joint committee?

A. It's composed of the five senior members of the House Ways and Means Committee and of the Senate Finance Committee and of a highly regarded technical staff. It is the only committee in Congress authorized to examine anyone's tax returns.

Q. What has it decided about Nixon's taxes?

A. There has been no official report—but plenty of leaks. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate committee and the joint committee, has been quoted as saying Nixon will be asked to repay between $300,000 and $350,000 in back taxes, including 6 percent interest. Long issued a statement Sunday saying: "I have never attempted to fix a figure on the amount of extra taxes the President may owe on his 1969-72 returns. I have only said there will be a substantial amount of taxes to be paid." He said the committee has found "no proof of fraud on the part of the President." Some sources have said the President may owe as much as $500,000.

Q. Why so much?

A. The committee is almost certain to rule that he was not entitled to a $335,000 tax deduction for the gift of his vice presidential papers to the National Archives and that he should have paid capital gains tax on the sale in 1970 of land adjacent to his ocean-side home in San Clemente, Calif.

Q. Anything else?

A. Probably. The committee, going beyond Nixon's request, is looking into other aspects of his returns and is likely to challenge other deductions—writeoffs for business expenses at his Florida and California homes and $17,216 in claimed depreciation on office furniture, for example.

Q. If all that is known, what is the committee waiting for?

A. It doesn't want to miss anything. And it appears to be studying the question of whether civil or criminal fraud was involved on anyone's part. The White House hasn't delivered all the documents it has asked for, committee sources say.

Q. How could the IRS have allowed Nixon to take improper deductions?

A. Stung by the disclosures, the IRS has asked the same question. So it is re-auditing Nixon's returns.

Neither the committee staff nor the IRS auditors want to miss anything—and so that is delaying the final report, too.

Q. About the deduction for Nixon's papers—what's involved?

A. The basic question is whether the gift was "completed" before July 25, 1969, when a new law took effect. The new law banned deductions for charitable gifts of valuable property by their creators. There have been allegations that Nixon did not "complete" making the gift before the deadline and that the deed for the gift was backdated by his associates.

Q. Wouldn't that involve fraud?

A. That's up to the IRS to say. The joint committee apparently is not going to pass judgment on whether the President intended to defraud the government. But the House Judiciary Committee may get into that in its inquiry into whether grounds exist for impeaching Nixon.

Q. Well, if the tax committee apparently isn't going to accuse Nixon of wrongdoing, why does Mills say its report will put pressure on Nixon to resign?

A. The congressman isn't elaborating. But he apparently feels the impact of the committee's findings about the propriety or legality of Nixon's tax returns will cause a sense of outrage to sweep the country.

Q. How much did Nixon pay in taxes?

A. After expenses, he reported a total adjusted gross income for 1969-72 of $1,122,264 or an average of $280,556 a year. He paid $78,650 in federal income taxes or an average of $19,662—about the amount a family of four would normally pay on an income of $67,000 a year. Chiefly because of the deductions for his vice presidential papers, Nixon paid only $792 in 1971 and $873 in 1972. He paid no income taxes in California or the District of Columbia and tripled his net worth while in office, becoming a millionaire.

Banker delivers ransom; awaits release of wife

LINO LAKES, Minn. (UPI) — Banker Gunnar Kronholm has delivered a ransom to the kidnapers of his wife, Eunice, a family spokesman said early today, and the kidnapers have promised they will let him know later today where his wife can be found.

The Rev. Bruce Fleming, Kronholm's brother-in-law and pastor the Bethlehem Baptist Church in Minneapolis, early today said money had been delivered "as per the kidnapers instruction and that word is suppose to be received sometime this morning where Mrs. Kronholm can be found."

Fleming refused to say how much ransom was paid or give any details on how the money was delivered.

Earlier, the FBI announced that the car belonging to Mrs. Kronholm was found in the Minneapolis suburb of Edina.

Mrs. Kronholm, 46, disappeared Friday morning sometime after 7:30 a.m. Later that day, a man telephoned Kronholm and said: "We have your wife. Deliver all the money you can to a station at ..."

Kronholm said he couldn't understand the last words from the caller who immediately hung up. Since then, nothing has been heard from the kidnapers.

Joseph H. Krimback, special agent in charge of the FBI in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, said the car belonging to Mrs. Kronholm was found at 1:25 a.m. EDT today by the Edina Police Department at the parking lot of the Southdale Shopping Center. Edina is about 30 miles from Lino Lakes.

No other information was available, Krimback said.

Kronholm, described as exhausted and distraught, was unable to meet Sunday with newsmen.

At a news conference Sunday at a road block a mile from his home, Kronholm's brother, Oliver, 61, and brother-in-law, the Rev. Bruce Fleming, pastor of Bethlehem Baptist Church in Minneapolis, said the banker was too tired to talk with newsmen.

Both said Kronholm was exhausted and trying to relax. They said, "There has been no communication from anyone." They added there won't be meetings with reporters until there is "further word from the kidnapers."

The two said they didn't know if any money had been transferred.

At two news conferences Saturday, Kronholm stood in front of his suburban Twin Cities home, saying he was awaiting further word and told his wife, "I love you."

Kronholm said the FBI assured him it won't interfere with any instructions he may receive to pay a ransom.

Kronholm said he last saw his blonde wife when he left home about 7:30 a.m. Friday to go to work. She failed to keep a beauty appointment Friday morning and a meeting with her husband Friday afternoon.

Kronholm, who has six children by a previous marriage, has been married to his present wife for about three years.

The FBI, contacted late Sunday night, said it has no "new information"

UPI struck in salary dispute; 900 workers out

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Wire Service Guild today struck United Press International in a dispute over a new contract for more than 900 domestic editorial and other employees.

The strike, which began at 8 a.m. EDT, was the first by editorial employees in the news service's history. It came after an all-night bargaining session, with UPI and WSG negotiators under the direction of a federal mediator.

A UPI spokesman said the news agency would deliver a basic news, newspaper and broadcasting service during the strike. Foreign operations are not affected.

Negotiations between UPI and WSG reached an impasse early today and broke off at 7:30 a.m. Pickets appeared outside UPI's world headquarters 30 minutes later. Guild-covered employees left the newsroom and management and supervisory personnel took over various news desks.

A basic issue in the impasse was the demand by the Guild committee for union security. The committee continued to demand an agency shop—that nonmembers be required to pay Guild dues—in any new agreement.

Both sides agreed to another meeting at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

stake in this matter?" Sirica said. "He doesn't have any objections and he is the one who apparently is primarily concerned about impeachment."

"I don't care what the position of the White House is," Wilson retorted sharply. "I'm not working for the White House. That's somebody else's problem."

Nixon was asked later in the day whether he was working "in concert" with the defense of Haldeman and Ehrlichman, as has been speculated in some quarters. The President replied that "Mr. Wilson, of course, is not working with the White House."

Canoe overturns in L.B. Harbor; girl, 15, drowns

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A teen-aged girl drowned when the canoe in which she was riding overturned during a midnight lark in Long Beach Harbor Monday.

Police said Donna Kalbach, 15, fell into the water when she and three of her friends attempted to change places in the craft. Two of her companions swam to safety and a fourth was pulled from the frigid water.

Sen. Percy asks more W. Europe pay for troops

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., Sunday called on European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to pay the salaries of some 80,000 west European employees of the 300,000 man U.S. force in Europe.

The United States' west European allies should pay at least $1.5 billion more a year to reduce the cost of keeping U.S. troops in Europe or "bite the bullet" of U.S. withdrawals, Percy said in a speech at a session of the Council on World Affairs entitled "World Front."

"We should not be paying when we transport American troops on the German railroads, paying in dollars for that when the German railroad is owned by the German government," Percy, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, added.

Those kind of expenses "could quickly and easily be absorbed by them (the Germans)," he said.

Percy said the west Europeans also should pay for roads, airstrips and buildings the U.S. forces construct in Europe.

"I do not want to see us unilaterally in any way reduce our troops there," the senator said, "but the U.S. troops are there in large measure for their common defense."

"If they do not feel it necessary and they do not feel the need to sacrifice, then we can, I think, logically begin to reduce those forces," Percy added.

First Lady gets flu on Latin tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon is recuperating from a bout with the flu which she suffered on her return Saturday evening from a rigorous six-day goodwill mission to Latin America.

The first lady was under the care of Dr. Walter Tkach, the White House physician and confined to the family quarters.

smere dare to say that nothing essential separates us from the United States?" Humanite said.

As to Mr. Jobert, how could he state that the Atlantic alliance rested on two equal pillars, the United States and Europe? This is an idyllic picture—an illustration of the "wretched, sickly and miserable" government policies denounced Saturday by Georges Marchais.

"In Washington, this alliance is clearly considered as that of a horse and rider—the reins held by American hands," l'Humanite said.

Gaullist party sources said President Georges Pompidou has told his key ministers not to say anything that might feed differences between Europe, and President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Cranston opposes proposal for stricter laws on libel

SAN LEANDRO (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is on record as opposing President Nixon's proposal that Congress enact stricter libel laws.

The senator said Saturday he would "vigorously oppose" a federal libel law as proposed by the President on March 8.

"The President says we need stricter libel laws to encourage 'good and decent' people to run for office," Cranston noted.

"But he ought to know by now that the best way to encourage 'good and decent' people to go into government is to conduct a good and decent government."

"Any public official or would-be public official who can't stand the heat of total press disclosure should take president Truman's advice and get out of the political kitchen," Cranston added at a news media luncheon.

Cranston also opposed a national "right-to-reply" law as suggested by the President for political candidates who are criticized by the news media.

"Once the government is given the power to tell newspapers what they must print in the name of 'fairness' it is only a matter of time before the government will be telling newspapers what they must not print—in the name of 'fairness,'" he said.

Cranston also opposed a national "right-to-reply" law as suggested by the President for political candidates who are criticized by the news media.

"The party newspaper l'Humanite attacked Premier Pierre Messmer and Foreign Minister Michel Jobert for statements minimizing the quarrel between Washington and its Atlantic allies, chiefly France."

It took particular issue with Jobert's statement Sunday at a convention of France's majority Gaullist party when he said, "I hope that nobody in the United States or Europe will let himself be trapped in excessive reasoning that can but be harmful for everyone."

French Reds condemn Nixon 'blackmail' tactics

PARIS (UPI) — The French Communist party said today the government is surrendering to what it called President Nixon's "blackmail" tactics against European allies.

The party newspaper l'Humanite attacked Premier Pierre Messmer and Foreign Minister Michel Jobert for statements minimizing the quarrel between Washington and its Atlantic allies, chiefly France.

It took particular issue with Jobert's statement Sunday at a convention of France's majority Gaullist party when he said, "I hope that nobody in the United States or Europe will let himself be trapped in excessive reasoning that can but be harmful for everyone."

"Any complacency towards the will of domination expressed so insolently by Mr. Nixon can only give a fresh impetus to his blackmail," l'Humanite said.

It demanded the departure of U.S. troops from Europe.

l'Humanite quoted a weekend statement by Party Secretary General Georges Marchais calling the Gaullist government policies "wretched, sickly and miserable."

Messmer said in a radio interview that nothing essential separated France and the United States, and Jobert told the Gaullist party rally that equal pillars—The United States and the Atlantic Alliance was based on two equal pillars—The United States and Europe.

"While Mr. Nixon demands total obeisance from his allies does Mr. Mesthe rebels since the attack came on the fourth anniversary of the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Oudong is a provincial capital 24 miles northeast of Phnom Penh and has a population of about 15,000.

Rebels have not captured a major town in more than three years despite a determined attack against the city of Kompong Cham last September.

Military sources said hand-to-hand fighting was reported in the center of Oudong and most of the residents had fled. The attackers numbered about 500.

Oudong was founded by King Ang Duong about 150 years ago and served for a period as the royal capital. The seat of government was later moved to Phnom Penh, where Sihanouk had his palace when he was overthrown in a bloodless coup.

Sihanouk, who now lives in China, is the head of the government in exile.

Sources said heavy fighting was also reported from Kampot, a provincial capital 93 miles southwest of Phnom Penh on the gulf of Siam. Sources said about 10,000 rebel troops are involved in the attack against the city.

White House outlines defense plan for Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House plans to use two main arguments to defend President Nixon against Watergate and related charges in the House Judiciary Committee, and in the House if it becomes an impeachment forum.

First, that Richard M. Nixon was not "directly involved" in any events surrounding Watergate or related scandals.

Second, that the Constitution is very precise about an impeachable offense—a very serious crime committed in one's official capacity.

Therefore, a high White House official concluded, the impeachment charges cannot stick. Nixon's defense strategy was outlined in a two-hour UPI interview Friday with the official, who would not permit his name to be used.

Asked to summarize the White House's prospective defense, the official gave this outline:

"First the break-in. He had no knowledge whatsoever about the Watergate break-in. And I've seen no substantial allegations he did."

"Second, until March 21 (1973), he was unaware of whatever it was that was going on."

"After March 21, he was aware of more of it. Insofar as the criticism that he did nothing decisive then, I think it was attributable to the uncertainty of who was involved and who did what. He proceeded with caution, but determination to get the truth."

"Finally, what it boils down to is what the House considers an impeachable offense. This makes a great deal of difference. Opinion ranges to extremes on both sides."

"If you say he is impeachable for the actions of his subordinates—and I hope that is not the conclusion—it would alter the whole form of constitutional government. If it is limited to the question of the President being directly involved, I think they will never come up with any evidence."

Between this definition and that of the White House lies a "gray area," he said.

"Here the political character of the process will have a major bearing. This is not a legal question, but a political one, not in the partisan sense, but as a confrontation between two co-equal branches of government."

Nixon's chief accuser has been former White House counsel John W. Dean III, who has said the President knew of Watergate cover-up efforts well before March 21, the date Nixon says he learned of the coverup. The official said Dean's story was not based entirely on fact or first-hand knowledge, but partly on "assumptions."

Because Dean's "assumptions" involved several close associates, Nixon proceeded cautiously, the official said. He ordered Dean to put his thoughts on paper so that "assumptions could be separated from fact." Dean testified the report was never written.

Was Nixon guilty of misprision—not reporting a crime even though he was not involved—for not immediately telling the Justice Department about Dean's remarks?

The White House official was asked to respond to these related allegations:

—That the administration settled an antitrust suit against ITT in exchange for a $400,000 contribution to the 1972 Republican National Convention: "The President did not direct a settlement of the ITT matter. He had no knowledge of a pledge of any contribution from ITT."

—That federal price supports for raw milk were increased in March, 1971, in exchange for campaign contributions: "As the President has said, 'Congress was holding a gun to our head.' They would have increased supports more than we did had we not acted. There was no discussion at that time of money from the milk industry."

—That attempts were made to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission civil complaint against financier Robert L. Vesco in return for a $200,000 campaign contribution: "I doubt he (Nixon) even knew Vesco had a case before the SEC or that a contribution had been made."

—That there were improprieties in Nixon's income tax returns: "Very few people whose job requires the full dedication of their time prepare their own tax return, and the President is no exception."

such as the truckers' strike earlier this year.

"We've got a marketing problem we have to eat our way out of," said John Robinson, vice president of the Georgia Cattlemen's Association. He predicted the present low prices will not last longer than three months.

"This is as low as it's going to get. Beef is a bargain at the present and will be for the next 60 to 90 days," he said.

Wray Finney, vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, said quick recovery for the cattle industry will require a rapid sell-off of current supplies.

"Stepped-up featuring of beef by retailers is imperative," to keep cattlemen from being forced out of business, Finney said.

Representative reports from grocery stores around the country:

ATLANTA—Beef prices are down substantially. The price of hamburger has dropped by 20 cents a pound to 88 cents during the past month. Colonial Stores, a chain of supermarkets, dropped all beef prices by 10 cents a pound during the past week.

LOS ANGELES—Nearly all California market chains lowered meat prices effective March 14. Prices for red meat were generally down 10 to 20 cents a pound.

SEATTLE, Wash. — Beef prices are down, but some other meats, such as wieners, have gone up. Ground beef dropped from 99 cents a pound three weeks ago to 93 cents a pound today, but wieners went from $1.09 a pound to $1.19 during the same period.

No letting up on getting up

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Nothing a man does throughout his entire day is as tough as the first thing he does: get out of bed in the morning.

For the average man (and Ms) those first waking moments, that agonized return to reality, that heavy-lidded glance at the alarm clock, are sheer torture. If there were some magic device to transport a man from his warm bed and deliver him in a fresh, shaved, showered and dressed, to the orange juice and coffee in a warm kitchen, there would be fewer people late to work or calling in sick, far fewer housewives with black eyes.

Small children love to get up in the morning. They can't wait. Sometimes they climb in bed with the parents, insuring the end of THIER sleep; sometimes they jump on Daddy's tummy, insuring a smack on the bottom.

The morning syndrome develops as the children grow older. With school awaiting, the day doesn't look all that great any more, and they're willing to sleep a little longer. By the time they reach their teens, you need a stick of dynamite to get them out of bed.

In maturity, most men and women would rather take a beating than get up in the morning. The inoffensive alarm clock sounds like the knell of doom.

Everyone wakes up in a different way, from the working stiff putting his bare feet on the cold floor, to the wealthy woman awakened at 11 a.m. by the maid with the breakfast tray. On the whole, the latter is much preferable, but there is really no good way to wake up and get up.

Some people have radio clocks that fill the room with music at a pre-determined time, bringing them slowly to consciousness. Some have an electric coffee pot by the bed and indulge in a cup of steaming java before arising. Some people watch the morning news on TV, which just makes getting up harder, if not impossible.

The weather plays an important part in the masochistic rite of arising. You prop open one eye-lid and glance out the window. If the sun is shining in a blue sky and a soft breeze billowing the curtains, things don't look so bad. You might just make it. But if the window is streaming with raindrops and a wind bending tree branches across a dark sky, the act of getting up assumes the proportions of the Spanish Inquisition.

And there is always the key question: what are you getting up FOR? Another long day in shop or office is not a strong lure. But if it's a Saturday and the first day of the fishing season, or a spring morning and you've got an early starting time at the municipal golf course—stand back! You're out of the sack like a Funny Car at the Winternationals.

It all depends.

Women given instruction in car care

LA VERNE — Liberty Ford will begin a car care class for women starting April 3.

Some of the areas covered in the six-week course will be how to understand the automobile's basic mechanical systems, how to keep a car in top operating condition, good driving habits to prolong car life, how to trade in a car and how to buy a new or used car.

The class will meet on Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Demonstrations, films and instruction by automotive experts are included in the course, all in non-technical, simple language.

Liberty Ford, said owner Bob Harris, is the only dealership in the region to offer this type of course. More than 300 women have completed the course in the past.

"We don't emphasize Ford products either," said Harris. "Many of our models, films and demonstration charts are about General Motors and Chrysler products."

The cost of the class is $2. For information or registration, persons may call 593-7411.

CUCAMONGA — A 24-year-old Fontana man was stabbed in an altercation with five men early Sunday morning in the parking lot of the Club 66 at 10134 Foothill Blvd., West End sheriff's deputies reported.

Jose Gilbert Valdez, of 5915 Catawba Ave., Fontana, was given emergency treatment for a stab wound in the left side at San Antonio Community Hospital shortly after the incident was seen by two deputies at 2 a.m. Valdez was later released from the Upland hospital.

Deputies said five men were arrested on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon in the incident. Booked in the West End Jail this morning in lieu of $2,500 each were Stephen Denny, 24, of 8159 Grove Ave., Cucamonga; Alan Paul Nieman, 26, no address given; Robert F. Kuester, 21, of 1465 Gertruda Ave., Upland; William Coby Jr., 25, no address given; and Michael Aichlmayr, 20, of 2847 E. Valley Blvd., West Covina.

Deputies said the fight began after Valdez allegedly threw a bottle at the suspects' car parked in the parking lot. Words were exchanged between the men and the fight began. Deputies Richard Lindar and Thomas Tyrell were in the area when the fighting was in progress and arrested the suspects at the scene. They found that Valdez had been stabbed in the left side.

Youth leaps to death from Queen Mary

LONG BEACH (UPI) — A youth who bragged he would be "the first person to leap from the Queen Mary" stripped to his shorts Sunday and plunged to his death in the harbor waters below.

Ronald and Gary Simon of Lakewood said they were strolling the rear deck of the moored liner about 2 a.m. when their friend Wayne Hussey, 19, announced they should all take turns leaping from the upper deck.

The Simons said Hussey went first but didn't bob to the surface.

The body of the Cypress youth was found six hours later jammed in a bed of mud 55 feet below the surface.

Those eggs are round

Sir, the eggs of great horned owls are round, not oval. The Soviet press has criticized sharply a couple there who named their child the Russian word for "Electrification."

Cigarettes bring a pretty fair price in the Congo, I'm told, because natives there still think the smoking of same wards off wild animals.

After age 20, the older you get, the less sleep you need, until age 60. Or so say researchers in Melbourne, Australia. Average 50-year-old man, they report, needs only 7 hours 15 minutes sleep per night.

Love and war

Client asks for the truth about infidelity among wives. The truth? That's pretty hard to catch up with. Still, a study of the numerous surveys on life among the married indicates approximately five out of every six married women in this country "do not expect or intend to seek extramarital relations." Our L. and W. man says that's about as close to the truth as we can hope to get this year.

Q. "What's the ice cream capital of the world?"

A. Used to be Philadelphia. Now it's Los Angeles.

Q. "Our President is the commander-in-chief. So does he have a military serial number?"

A. He does not. He doesn't even have to take the inoculations.

Q. "What's the difference between a humorist and a satirist?"

A. Can only quote Father Ronald A. Knox on that one. Said he: "The humorist runs with the hare; the satirist hunts with the hounds."

The hard facts

In Denmark, you can buy toothpaste flavored orange, banana and strawberry, it's reported. . . . Biopsies prove that most breast lumps—between 65 and 80 per cent, in fact—are not cancerous. . . . Military records list the existence about a dozen years ago of one Pfc. Merry Christmas. . . . Approximately 17 out of every 100 doctors in this country don't practice medicine. . . . That place in this nation with the fewest women drivers in proportion to its population is the District of Columbia.

A man tends to be angular, a woman roundish. In the chin, the shoulders, the hips. That's nature's way as you know. But did you know it's also true of their teeth? A man's teeth, particularly his upper central incisors, usually are somewhat more square than the curved teeth of women.

Open gasoline station robbed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The only gasoline station open Sunday in central Los Angeles was robbed of $80 and its attendant wounded while a line of motorists waited to buy fuel.

Authorities said the attendant, Louis Paster, 33, was wounded in the left knee by a piece of flying concrete when the bandit fired into the pavement.

Police said the bandit cut in front of a line of seven cars, ordering the attendants to line up while he held a gun on them. He fired twice at the pavement to speed them up, police said.

Paster was treated and released.

Women guards prove they can do the job

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Forty-four women have become guards in California prisons and reportedly have experienced little difficulty with their new jobs, except for some problems with handling firearms and male inmates blowing them kisses.

Philip D. Guthrie, spokesman for the state Corrections Department, said 55 slots have been opened for female correctional officers in an experiment to see whether women can hold prison jobs, and 44 women thus far have begun service.

"Obviously we are not going to assign women to our hottest unit where we keep the toughest guys," Guthrie said.

"However, there are some of our old line officers now who will at least entertain the idea that a woman might have a calming influence. That's not something we are proposing to experiment very soon with, however," he added.

Carol Dahlberg, a Vacaville Medical Facility guard, said one problem she encountered recently was when a prisoner began blowing kisses at her from behind his barred window of a nearby cellblock.

"They're being men, honest-to-God men, and I can understand," she said. "I was a female for 31 years before I got to be a CO (correctional officer)."

Miss Dahlberg coped with the inmate by calling the officer in charge of his wing and tell him to remind the prisoner he was dealing with a state correctional officer, if you please.

The experiment with female guards has met strong negative reaction from the Sierra Conservation Center, where three women are employed.

The comment by prison officials: "... they have failed consistently and repeatedly to qualify on firearms so that we have been unable to utilize them on tower assignments ... the evaluation is unfavorable."

But at other prisons the story is different.

L.N. Patterson, superintendent of Deuel Vocational Institute which has four female guards, reported: "Our women COs have demonstrated that they can perform their restricted assignments without creating any problems and have conducted themselves in an exemplary manner."

When Correction Department Director Ray Proconier announced last summer the prison system would begin experimenting with female officers, many male guards expressed outrage.

"The emotional impact was tremendous," said Corrections Personnel Officer George C. Jackson. "Corrections has historically been a male-oriented kind of operation."

But now that the men are somewhat used to the idea, said Officer Betty Brown "I think they've reacted very well. Many, many of the officers had a real concern for our safety. And there was the concern too that they would have to lay their lives on the line, as they put it, to protect us."

"Some feared the jobs would take care the easy jobs, the push jobs."

"But the majority, particularly the younger officers, says they're going to keep an open mind," she said.

One concern expressed by male officers, Jackson said, was that the privacy of male inmates might be jeopardized.

But Guthrie said, "We're not putting women in any situation where women will see naked men."

Jackson would turn U.S. coal into oil

CRANSTON, R.I. (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., says it would cost less to convert America's enormous coal supply into oil than it now pays to import it and called for a "massive, sustained effort" to make the U.S. self sufficient in energy.

He said such an effort could virtually wipe out unemployment in the nation.

"The fact is that the international oil cartel has run up oil prices at will," Jackson told a St. Patrick's Day dinner audience Sunday night. "This plus the dollar drain poses a continuing threat to the American economy that can be removed only by a massive and sustained effort to achieve self sufficiency in energy."

The Washington Democrat said the decision of Arab oil producing nations to use their embargo as a diplomatic weapon against the United States was all the more reason to begin converting coal to oil and natural gas.

"We have half the coal reserves in the world that can be converted into gas and oil for less than we presently pay for foreign oil," Jackson said. There are also 600 billion barrels of potential oil available from shale in the Rocky Mountains, he said.

Jackson also urged Congress to approve legislation he introduced to provide $2 billion a year for the next 10 years to design and build prototype power plants which, he said, would allow the United States to tap its vast energy reserves without endangering the environment.

"Creating a self sufficient energy industry will require enormous investments," Jackson said. "But when this program is underway, we're going to have so much business in this country there won't be an idle person who is capable of working who won't have a job."

Kansas City schools struck by teachers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Teachers struck the Kansas City School District today. Pickets went up before dawn preventing deliveries of milk and bread to the schools.

Dr. Robert L. Medcalf said the schools would continue operating, but effect of the strike, in terms of the proportion of teachers failing to report for duty, could not be determined immediately.

Norman Hudson, president of the Kansas City Federation of Teachers, predicted the majority of the district's teachers would be off the job today and that by Wednesday "we'll have this district shut down."

Hudson said the vote Sunday in favor of a strike against the 62,000 student district was overwhelming. He said "only about 30" no votes were registered among the 1,600 teachers who met at a downtown hotel. The union represents 3,100 teachers and professional personnel.

Hudson was confident of the success of the strike.

"The first day there is always some skepticism and there are some who go in, but their consciences begin to play with them," he said. "We'll have 80-85 per cent

Monday and by Wednesday we'll have this district shut down."

Medcalf said "our primary responsibility is to keep the schools open."

Medcalf met privately late Sunday with attorneys for the district. They were believed to be discussing possible litigation.

Teachers' strikes are illegal in Missouri, but Hudson said teachers would be instructed to defy a no-strike injunction. A strike last year by St. Louis teachers lasted 28 days, and two teachers organizations later were fined more than $500,000.

Hang glider dies in fall

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — A Santa Ana man died Sunday when his hang glider stalled, and dropped 200 feet into Devil's Canyon.

Police said sheriff's deputies said Eric Russell Wells, 20, had been attempting a 360-degree turn above the big kite when the accident occurred near Crestline.

Three dozen arrested in holiday melee

SEAL BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Bricks and bottles were hurled into the ranks of helmeted police Sunday night after an afternoon crowd outside two Irish bars swelled to more than 1,500 persons.

More than three dozen persons were arrested by midnight after the unruly three-hour St. Patrick's Day melee. Authorities said the disturbance occurred outside the same two taverns where the holiday provoked similar trouble last year.

Police from at least four nearby communities were called out to handle the growing crowd which surged along Main Street, the location of The Irish and Clancy's bars.

A handful of officers and young celebrants suffered cuts and bruises from flying debris. None was hospitalized.

Two men in a car attempted to ram a squad car but were later arrested after ground units and a police helicopter cornered them five miles away.

They were charged with attempted assault on a police unit.

It's cold in Midwest; snow in East

By United Press International

Winds up to 50 miles per hour whipped snow across central New York State, and cold prairie winds raged across the Plains early today.

Snow swirled over central New York and along the southern shore of Lake Ontario. Winds gusted to 50 m.p.h. and piled snow into drifts two to four feet high.

Syracuse, N.Y., reported 3 more inches of snow in 6 hours, and Rochester and Binghamton, N.Y., go 2 more inches.

Cool northwesterly winds extended south to the middle Atlantic states, dropping temperatures to the 20s and 30s. Freeze warnings were issued for Delaware, Maryland, parts of Virginia and South Carolina.

Northerly winds spread another mass of cold air over the northern Plains. Stockmen's advisories went up for North Dakota and northeastern Montana.

A band of freezing rain and snow stretched across eastern Iowa to central Minnesota. Rain or snow showers moved over northern California, through the intermountain region and into the Rockies and northern Plains.

Clear skies prevailed over much of the Southeast.

The doctor comments

Very low white cell count demands study

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—For a number of years I have shown an extremely low white cell count in my yearly check-up—such as 3,200 compared to 7,000, which I understand is normal. Usually I am given the six B-12 and calcium shots for a "build-up," but, even so, the count does not go up.

I am very healthy (age 69) and extremely resistant to disease such as the common cold, flu, infection, etc. I understand the low count indicates non-resistance to such illnesses, but in my case this is not so.

My doctor said last year that he frankly does not know what else to do and, if I feel all right, to not worry about the low count.

Is this your opinion? Is it an indication of anything else? What do you think causes such a low count? I take about four aspirin a day for occasional aches and pains or muscular stress, and am on medicine for high blood pressure (which is well under control).

DEAR READER—That is a low count. Usually we consider anything below 5,000 as too low. There are individual exceptions, and it is possible that your count is normal for you.

Such a finding certainly warrants careful investigation. Your doctor knows about your red blood cells and other findings which may help him know just how important the finding is in your case.

Sometimes the spleen is overactive and literally digests too many white blood cells. Usually in this case the spleen can be felt on physical examination. Often it destroys an excess amount of red blood cells too, but not always.

In other instances the blood-forming organs just quit producing enough cells. You can tell more about this by special tests, such as examination of the bone marrow and looking at lymph glands with a microscope.

Some medicines do affect the number of blood cells formed, and it is possible that one of the medicines you are taking for blood pressure could be affecting this.

If you are worried about this, ask the doctor to get a consultation with a specialist in hematology and let him evaluate the possible causes of your problem.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have arthritis—which began in my finger joints—so far not spread to other joints.

I always thought lots of orange juice and other fresh fruits were advisable, and then a doctor out of state told an acquaintance that she should never drink orange juice. Her finger joints are showing the swelling and stiffness. Can this be right? I'd like your opinion. It should be of help to all so afflicted.

DEAR READER—Utter

nonsense. There is no reason why patients with arthritis can't drink all the orange juice they want. The only exception would be if they had an acid stomach, an ulcer or similar problems.

While I favor using orange juice and fresh fruits in the diet, I must add that they do not cure arthritis, but merely help anyone to have a good nutritious diet.

For more information on arthritis you might like to send for "There's Help for Arthritis," a book I co-wrote with LaRue Stone. Send $1 plus 25 cents postage and handling to "Arthritis," in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dr. Lamb welcomes questions from his readers, but because of the volume of mail he cannot answer personally. Questions of general interest will be discussed in future column. Write to Dr. Lamb

Bridge

Experts make game tougher

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Oswald: "It is always interesting to see experts struggling against one another. The ordinary bridge player would make only nine tricks with hearts as trump because after East won the first two diamond tricks and continued the suit or led a spade or a trump. South would hasten to laydown his ace and king of trumps."

Jim: "An expert South would cash one high trump; take the club finesse; lead dummy's eight of trumps and let it ride. The play could not hurt him and would guard against four trumps in the East hand. I take it that expert South went down anyway."

Oswald: "You take it correctly. Expert East took his ace of diamonds and led back a club. South won in dummy and decided that East had obviously led a singleton. Hence, South played the ace and king of hearts and wound up one trick in the soup."

Jim: "Looks like cruel and inhuman punishment for South's slight overbid of three hearts. Had he just bid two hearts he would have played the hand there and made a profit against any defense."

Lakers remain in race

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers surprised everyone, including their coach, with an impressive win over the New York Knicks Sunday night.

Coming off Friday and Saturday night losses to Golden State, including a 135-105 thrashing in Oakland on Saturday, the Lakers rebounded with a 126-114 win over the Knicks. It was their second win over New York in less than a week.

"There were a lot of reasons we should have been down tonight but we weren't," said Laker Coach Bill Sharman. "We moved well and we cut well with the ball."

The win moved the Lakers to within one-half game of the first place Warriors in the crucial Pacific Division race. Golden State has seven games left and a two-game edge in the loss column while the Lakers have four games left.

Guard Jim Price, who was sub-par in both Golden State game, led the Lakers with 25 points. Gail Goodrich and center Elmore Smith scored 22 each. Happy Hairston scored 24.

Smith has now scored 72 points in his last three games.

"No one else has wanted to score so I've had to," Smith said. "I'm getting better position and I'm getting the ball more."

Hairston was more to the point: "Smith is showing people he's unstoppable. He's really been smoking the last three games."

The Lakers trailed most of the way but scored 10 straight near the end of the third period to forge ahead 91-86.

Dave DeBusschere, who had 22 points for the Knicks, hit two straight baskets to cut the lead to 114-110 with 2:17 left but a layup by Hairston and a three-point play by Smith put the game away.

All four of the Lakers remaining games are at the Forum: Milwaukee on Wednesday, Chicago Friday, Buffalo Sunday and Seattle the following Tuesday.

The Warriors meet Milwaukee, Buffalo, Seattle and Portland at home and play the Sonics, Phoenix and Portland on the road.

If the two teams end with identical records, the Warriors will nail down the final Western Conference playoff spot by virtue of a 4-2 advantage in the Laker-Warrior season series.

Awtrey angry, punches Jabbar

By United Press International

You've got to be either very angry or a little crazy to throw a punch at someone 7-feet 2 and 235 pounds.

Chicago's Dennis Awtrey claims he was very angry when he let loose a right hook at the left eye of Milwaukee's Kareem Abdul-Jabbar before a national television audience Sunday.

"He was giving me the elbow on every free throw," said Awtrey, not exactly a pushover at 6-10, 235-pounds. "And it finally got to the point where I thought he wanted to fight. So after the rebound, I grabbed his shirt spun him around and gave him one. It was worth it."

Awtrey, stuck with an automatic $50 fine for the technical foul, was ejected and he had no second thoughts later.

"He knows I will retaliate if it happens again," Awtrey said. "I feel I was protecting myself."

Jabbar, who scored 38 points and grabbed 22 rebounds in Milwaukee's 108-82 victory over the Bulls, had "no comment" as he sat in the Milwaukee dressing room with his left eye swelling swiftly.

But Bucks coach Larry Costello had a few words.

"I like the Bulls and the aggressive way they play," Costello said. "But I think it went too far. I don't like dirty ball."

Chicago Coach Dick Motta, had no explanation for the Awtrey-Jabbar altercation, nor two earlier near fights involving the Bulls' hard-nosed guard Jerry Sloan.

"I can't look inside the minds of anybody, let alone all five of these guys," Motta said. "They just beat us badly and its the best I've ever seen Jabbar play. But we only shot 28 per cent and you don't win any games with that percentage."

Howard Porter led Chicago with 22 points.

Jabbar wasn't sidelined long. He came back in the last period to score 14 points.

In other action Los Angeles kept its playoff hopes alive with a 126-114 victory over New York. Boston locked up its third straight Atlantic Division title with a 129-103 triumph over Capital. Detroit downed Buffalo 116-109. Phoenix routed Seattle 133-108. Kansas City-Omaha beat Houston 125-116 and Cleveland beat Philadelphia 115-99.

Celtics 129, Bulls 103

Paul Westphal came off the bench to score 10 points in the key second period and Artie Williams added eight as the Celtics increased a 34-29 first period lead to a 62-44 lead at halftime before clinching their 11th division crown. John Havlicek was the game's high scorer with 29 points.

Pistons 116, Braves 109

Bob Lanier and Dave Bing, with 23 points each, led Detroit to its 50th victory. Randy Smith led Buffalo with 32 points as the Braves played without leading scorer Bob McAdoo, who was home with the flu.

Suns 133, Sonics 108

Keith Erickson hit 22 of his 30 points in the first half and Clem Haskins and Dick Van Arsdale combined for 28 in the second half as they helped Phoenix rout Seattle.

Kings 125, Rockets 114

Don Kojis scored a season high 30 points although he didn't play the final quarter to lead K.C.-Omaha past Houston. Rudy Tomajanicovich and Calvin Murphy each scored 25 points to pace Houston. Nate Williams followed Kojis with 22 points for the Kings.

Cavs 115, 76ers 99

Austin Carr, held to only eight points in the first half, exploded for 23 second half points to pace Cleveland. Dwight Davis added 21 for the Cavs, who won the battle of the boards 68-46. Tom Van Arsdale and Fred Carter led Philadelphia with 23 and 21 points.

Thompson should be OK for Bruins

Stage set for Dream Game

By United Press International

The stage is set for Dream Game II, though it did look doubtful for a while. UCLA, looking for an unprecedented eighth straight NCAA title, and North Carolina State, No. 1 ranked in the nation, will meet again Saturday in the NCAA semifinals at Greensboro, N.C. Both were undefeated last season and met at a neutral court in St. Louis early this season, with UCLA romping 83-

60, the Wolfpack's only loss this season.

David Thompson, N.C. State's star, will play after a huge scare and 15 stitches in his head in a 100-72 rout of Pittsburgh in the Eastern regional finals. UCLA, led by All American Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes, returns after demolishing San Francisco 83-60 in the Western regional.

Marquette, a 72-70 winner over Michigan in the Midwest, plays Kansas, a 93-90 overtime conqueror of Oral Roberts in the Midwest, in the other semifinal, with the title game set for Monday March 25.

Thompson, a 6-foot 4 junior All-American, stunned a national television audience and a capacity crowd of 12,400 in Raleigh, N.C., Saturday afternoon when he somersaulted high in the air and crashed head-first to the court after trying to block a shot. He lay motionless and unconscious until he was wheeled out to an ambulance.

Thompson regained consciousness in the emergency room of a nearby hospital and x-rays revealed no apparent damage to his skull or brain. He was released after receiving 15 stitches for a 1 1/2-inch gash in the back of his neck.

Ryan hit hard as Giants beat Angels, 8-2

SUN CITY, Ariz. (UPI) — No question, Bobby Winkles was saying, "we've got to get the most out of our pitching to stay in the race this year."

Shortly after the California Angel manager sized up his chances Sunday, his pitching ace, Nolan Ryan, was touched for three runs in the fourth inning in an 8-2 Cactus League loss to the San Francisco Giants in Palm Springs, Calif.

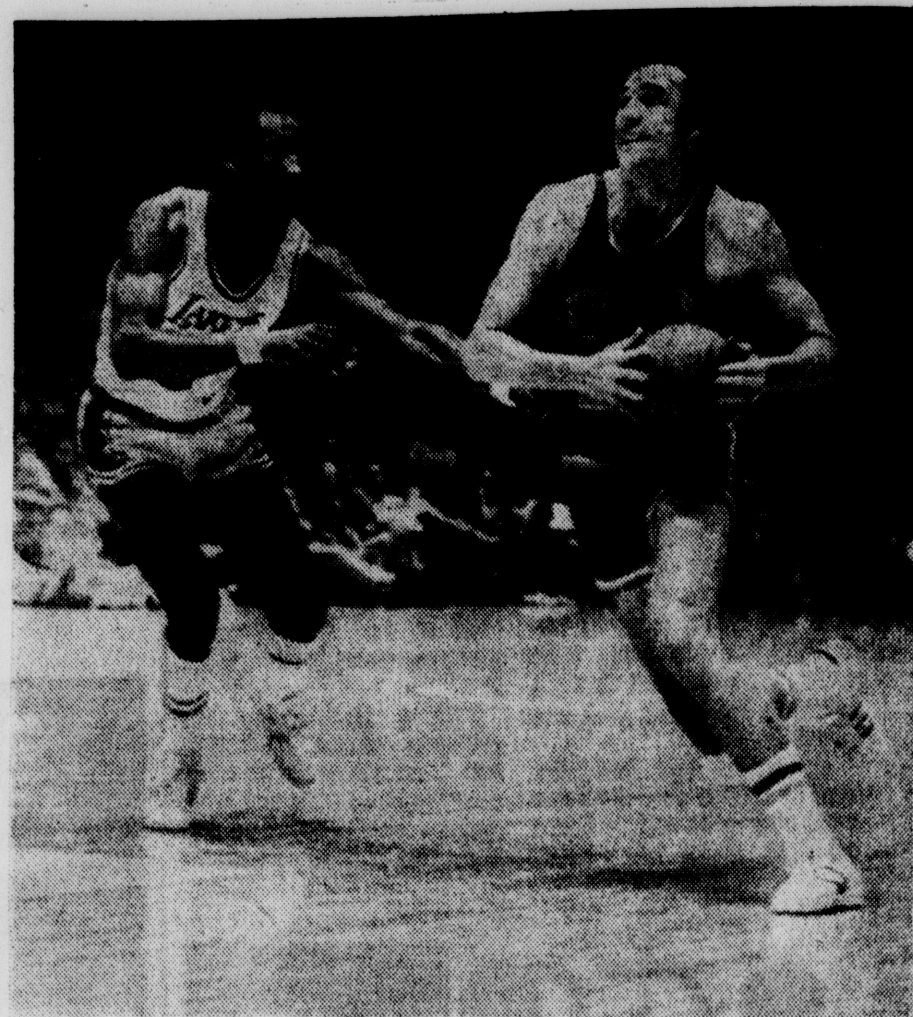

Ryan, who pitched two no-hitters, set a major league record by striking out 383 batters and won 21 games last season, got himself into trouble by walking Dave Rader to lead off the Giants' third inning.

A sacrifice, a walk to Bobby Bonds and an infield hit by Tito Fuentes loaded the bases. Gary Maddox responded with a two-run single and came around to score on Ed Goodson's sacrifice fly.

The Angels continued to have trouble at the plate. Their only runs came in the bottom of the third on Bob Oliver's two-run double.

"I don't think we're really as bad offensively as we have shown," Winkles said. "And I am certain that we are improved defensively."

Frank Tanana, a 20-year-old rookie who may be Winkles' No. 3 man in the rotation behind Ryan and Bill Singer, will start today against Milwaukee.

Mosley starts last but wins Phoenix race

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Mike Mosley started dead last, but used quick pit stops and smooth driving to win the Phoenix 150 United States Auto Club race Sunday at Fastrack International Speedway.

Mosley was a picture of consistency throughout the day, not as spectacular as some of the favorites in the early going, but always smooth and in contention.

Finishing second was Bobby Unser, winner of last week's California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway, followed by veteran A.J. Foyt and 1973 Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock. Mario Andretti was fifth, Wally Dallenbach sixth and Johnny Rutherford seventh.

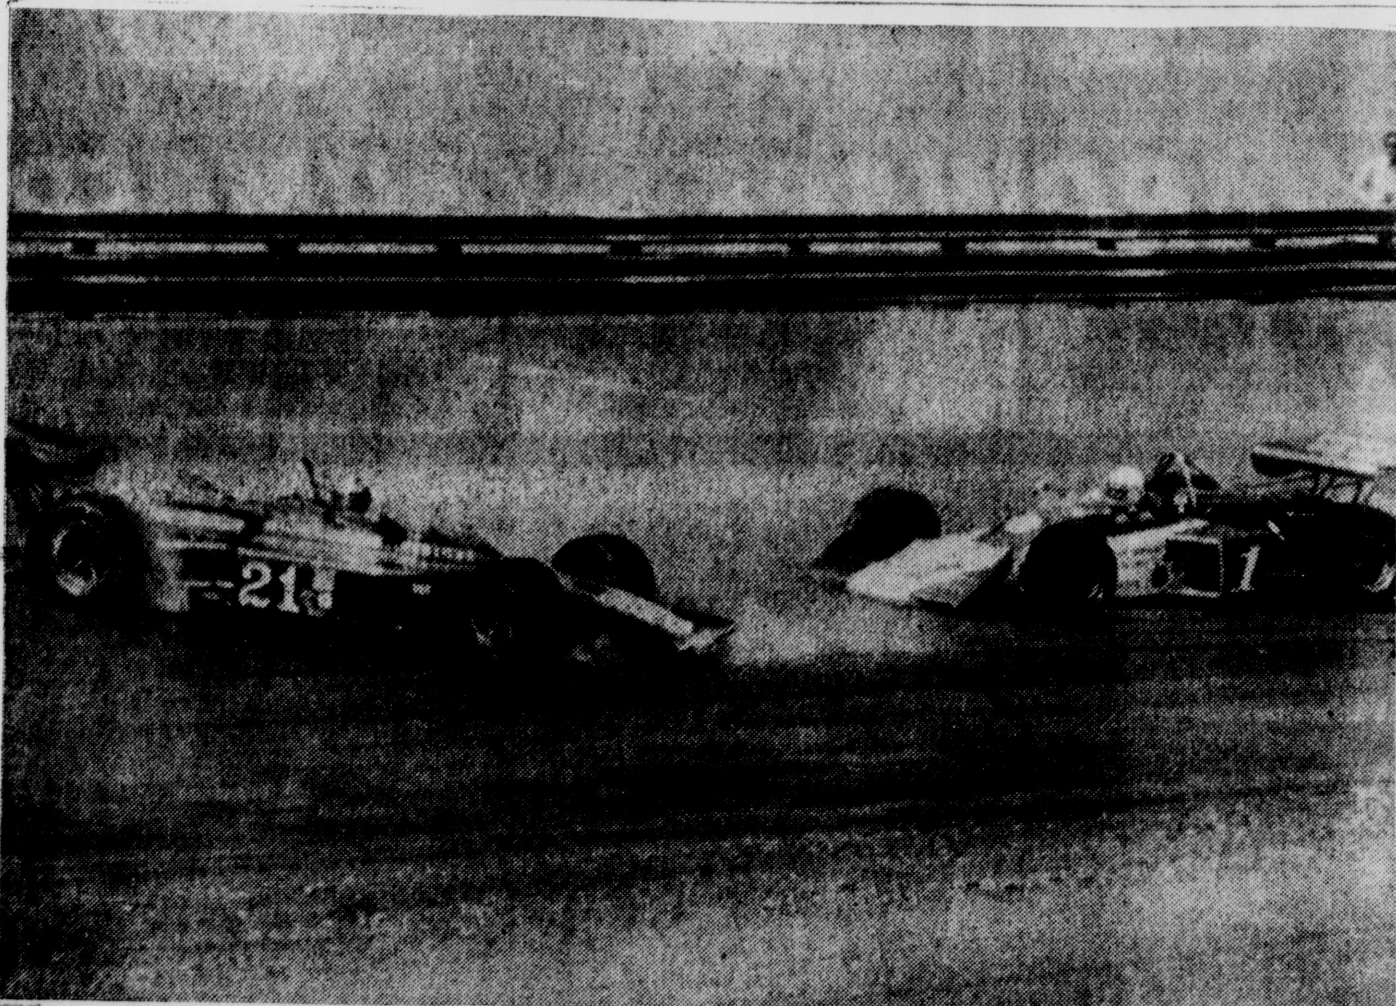

The first four finishers were on the same lap, with the rest of the field at least one lap behind on the mile oval. Unser was some 12 seconds behind at the finish.

There were three minor spinouts, but no injuries. Jimmy Caruthers was tapped by Roger McCluskey and spun into the wall on the 11th lap. McCluskey spun 15 laps later, and Lloyd Ruby was sidelined after five more laps.

Only 10 cars from the starting field of 20 completed the race. Pole sitter Al Unser had turbo-charger problems early and did not finish.

Mosley—who failed to qualify and was permitted in because of the small field—took the lead on the 101st lap when he pitted quickly under the yellow flag and got out first ahead of a rash of other pit stoppers.

An estimated crowd of 11,000 watched the race under sunny skies and unseasonably warm temperatures in the high 80s.

Trojans go for CCA title

ST LOUIS (UPI) — Indiana and Southern California meet tonight for the championship of the first Collegiate Commissioners Association basketball tournament after overcoming spunky opponents in semifinal games Sunday.

"It could be a real good game or it could be a mess," Southern California Coach Bob Boyd says of tonight's showdown.

Both semifinals followed a similar pattern, with Indiana rushing to an early lead against Toledo before being forced into overtime. Jim Caruthers led Bradley back from an 18-point deficit into overtime against Southern Cal.

In both games, the winning coaches said their taller squads, favored by most observers to meet in the finals, lost their cool and were forced into miscues by the underdogs. But superior height prevailed in the end. Indiana won 73-72 over Toledo and USC scored a 76-73 victory over Bradley.

Both winners lost their composure and their big leads in the second half and Boyd said, if the sloppiness persists, tonight's finale could wind up with "basketballs flying all over the place."

Indiana's Bobby Knight, never shy about speaking his mind on his team's effort, was concerned over the late let-down. "You'll never find me getting too elated when we win," he said. "I'm more concerned about how we win and when we lose I'm concerned about how we lost. We didn't do things today that we've done all year."

Boyd gave Joe Stowell's Bradley Braves much of the credit for the Trojans' momentary collapse and Knight had high praise for Toledo.

"I honestly think we got outstuffed in the ballgame," Knight said. "I look back and over nine years of coaching that hasn't happened too often. I wasn't too happy about it."

Larry Cole tied Toledo with Indiana at 65-65 with 22 seconds left in regulation time to bring the Rockets back from a deficit that had been as much as 10 in the opening half. Toledo made only four of its first 19 field goals in a horrible first 10 minutes.

But in the overtime, Indiana's height was too much for Bob Nichols' Rockets. Kent Benson hit a layup with 1:27 left to clinch the win for the Hoosiers.

The second game was like an instant replay. USC was up by 18 points in the first half, but the Braves kept chopping away, outscoring USC 21-6 in the last 11 minutes to tie it on Caruthers' final shot. Dan Anderson, who scored 25 points for the Trojans, scored five of them in the overtime to lead the Trojans into the final.

"I don't want to say we blew the game, because that takes an awful lot away from Bradley," Boyd said, but if we don't play any better against Indiana, it could be an awfully funny looking thing out there."

Confident Alston sees Dodgers wallop Mets

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — "I am more confident than I was at this time last year," Los Angeles Dodger Manager Walt Alston said Sunday.

The 62-year-old Alston, in his 21st spring as manager of the Dodgers, is hoping for an improvement over last season when the Dodgers won 95 games but finished second to Cincinnati in the National League West.

"I don't place a lot of emphasis on spring results," said Alston, "but I form opinions that are a combination of what I see in the spring and last year's production."

Alston was pleased with what he saw Sunday, a 9-2 Dodger win over the National League Champion New York Mets in Vero Beach in which third baseman Ron Cey homered and drove in four runs.

Left-hander Doug Rau gave up only one run, a fourth-inning homer by John Milner, in five innings and picked up the win.

Cey's two-run homer came in the seventh off World Series star Tug McGraw. The Dodgers picked up two more runs in the inning on Tommie Agee's run-scoring single and an error by Dave Schneck which allowed another run to score.

The Dodgers, now 4-5, send Tommy John against Minnesota's Ray Corbin in a Grapefruit League meeting here today. Relief ace Mike Marshall, acquired in a winter deal with Montreal, was expected to arrive at the Dodger camp today.

Veteran third baseman Ken McMullen returned home to Oxnard, Calif., Sunday, to be with his wife, Bobbie. Mrs. McMullen underwent surgery for cancer last May and has been undergoing treatments at St. John's Hospital in Oxnard. The McMullens have three children, Jonathan, who was born last Nov. 30; another son, Ryan, 4; and a daughter, Kenna, 2.

McMullen, 31, is expected to rejoin the team when it breaks camp and returns to Southern California next week.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti of Penn State will sign with the Los Angeles Rams today, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer.

In a copyrighted story, the Inquirer said the signing would take place in Los Angeles.

The newspaper said Cappelletti, a native of suburban Upper Darby, flew to Los Angeles Sunday to meet with his agent and work on final negotiations with Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom.

The Inquirer said Cappelletti may receive a multi-year contract totaling more than $350,000.

Eastern clubs falling fast in NIT action

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Invitation Tournament often has been criticized as too Eastern-oriented but not this year, at least after the conclusion of the first round.

The only Eastern schools to advance into the quarterfinals were Connecticut and Boston College with victories Sunday, while local favorite St. John's was a 52-70 victim of Connecticut.

An unheralded guard, Jimmy Foster, did in St. John's with a superlative 27-point performance Sunday afternoon, which caught everyone but the Redmen's coach Lou Carnesecca off-guard. Carnesecca was ready but helpless.

"Dick McGuire (New York Knicks' scout)," Carnesecca said, "told me to be ready for another Tiny (Nate) Archibald. I put four different men on him but no one could stop him," Carnesecca said.

In other Sunday games, Utah devastated Rutgers 102-89, Boston College squeezed by Cincinnati 63-62 and Memphis State edged Seton Hall 73-72.

In Saturday's action, Eastern squads Manhattan, Fairfield and Massachusetts joined pre-tournament favorite North Carolina on the sidelines as Maryland-Eastern Shore, Hawaii, Jacksonville and Purdue advanced into the quarterfinals.

Foster, however, clearly was the star of first-round play, performing brilliantly in the last 11 minutes of the game in leading UConn past St. John's.

Foster's final three-pointer with under three minutes left put the Huskies ahead 70-67 and his steal and conversion of a pair of free throws gave Connecticut a comfortable lead.

If Foster was Sunday's outstanding individual performer, Utah certainly was the most impressive team, humiliating Rutgers with a 61-point first half which saw the Redskins shoot a tremendous 68 per cent from the floor.

Tuesday's quarterfinals match Maryland-Eastern Shore against Jacksonville and Hawaii versus Purdue.

One of the two surviving Eastern squads will be eliminated Thursday when Connecticut faces Massachusetts. Utah meets Memphis State in the other game.

Smith leaves Fisk eating words

By United Press International

Fisk was highly critical of Smith last year when they were teammates and the new St. Louis Cardinals outfielder gained revenge for the bad mouthing in an exhibition game Sunday when he slugged a game-tying homer in a 4-3 defeat of the Red Sox.

Smith called Fisk a "cry baby" prior to the game and the catcher could not reply because Manager Darrell Johnson would not allow him to comment on Smith's needling.

Making matters worse, Fisk was felled by the old adage that bad luck comes in threes. During the game, he tripped over a bat while chasing a foul ball, was hit by a Bob Gibson pitch and finally left the game when struck in the groin by a foul ball in the sixth inning.

Smith tied the game at 3-3 in the last of the ninth inning and the Cards won in that frame when third baseman Mario Guerrero committed a two-base error and Ken Reitz came through with a two-out single.

Boston split its squad for another game against Philadelphia and this time managed to win 10-7 as Rick Wise pitched 4 2-3 innings of perfect ball. Bernie Carbo had four hits and three RBIs, while Jim Rice sent in five runs with a homer and two singles.

Ron Cey drove in four runs with a single, a sacrifice and a homer as the Los Angeles Dodgers routed the New York Mets, 9-2. John Milner's home run was the Mets' big blow of the game.

The Chicago Cubs beat the world champion Oakland A's, 6-2, in a Cactus League game on extra base hits by Bill Madlock, Vic Harris and Jerry Morales. Harris and Morales homered. Oakland MVP Reggie Jackson was hit in the right ankle by a pitch but was not injured seriously.

Minnesota won its first exhibition game after 10 straight losses when Eric Soderholm, Bob Darwin and Steve Braun homered in a 9-5 victory over Houston. The Astros now are 3-6 in exhibition competition.

Jorge Orta drove in four runs with a homer and two singles in leading the Chicago White Sox to an 8-5 win over Kansas City. Ron Santo of Chicago and Cookie Rojas of the Royals left the game after they were hit by pitches.

In other action, Barry Foote's single drove in the go-ahead run as Montreal defeated Texas, 5-1; Bobby Murcer's two-run double helped the New York Yankees beat Detroit, 5-1; Pat Osburn, Steve Kealy and Pat Zachry combined for a five-hitter as Cincinnati blanked Atlanta, 7-0; Charlie Spikes brought in the deciding run with a single in Cleveland's 3-1 win over

Tennis tourney opens in Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Australian John Newcombe figured to be the man to beat for the $25,000 first prize at the American Airlines Tennis tourney which opened today at the Tucson Racquet Club.

The number one-seeded Newcombe heads a field of 64 in this first $150,000 tourney played in this southwestern desert city. He can expect some strong challenges from Tom Okker of Holland; Ken Rosewall of Australia; and American Arthur Ashe, who are seeded behind Newcombe in that order.

Jack Kramer, head of the association of tennis professionals and event director, said a high-altitude ball will be used for the week-long event. The ball will slow down the men's game and this should favor Newcombe, who has won two of the three events he has entered this year.

The ball has less bounce and speed. "It will kick Stan Smith's game down quite a bit," said Kramer. "It improves the chance of Newcombe. It takes away from the offense and helps the defense."

The final matches on Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally on the Public Broadcasting System network.

Kings' coach happy he was proved wrong

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — "I had one of those feelings that this was not going to be a good one," Los Angeles Kings Coach Bob Pulford said Saturday night.

Pulford was happy he was wrong. The Kings took over undisputed possession of third place in the NHL's West Division by beating the Detroit Red Wings 2-0 to give goalie Roger Vachon his fifth shut-out.

"It just shows you sometimes even the coach doesn't know what his team is going to do," Pulford said.

With the victory, which came on second-period goals by Don Kozak and Juha Widing, the Los Angeles Kings have beaten every team in the league for the first time since the premier season back in 1967-68.

"They went out and played a heck of a game—every one of them," Pulford said of his players.

The Kings are now six points ahead of St. Louis with only 10 games left to play.

Vachon helped to give the Kings their first win over Detroit in five games by turning away 23 shots. Detroit only threatened the goal early in the third period on two shots by Mickey Redmond.

The Kings dominated the first period by taking 19 shots at Jim Rutherford but ended the period scoreless. Los Angeles took advantage of two Detroit penalties near the end of the opening session to score on a power play goal 30 seconds into the second period.

Kozak tipped in a short pass from Bob Berry and Widing for his 14th goal. Kozak set up Widing's 30-foot slap shot 13 minutes later for the second and final score of the game.

The Kings go against Toronto here Tuesday.

WFL holds NFL draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Twenty-six NFL'ers who have played out their option, including New York Jets lineman John Elliott, will be the target of the new World Football League when it conducts a draft of National Football League players today.

The two-day draft includes 20 rounds of selections daily. Clubs apparently have decided upon their choices since all agreed to take just one minute to make their selections.

The 12-team WFL also is anxious to negotiate with disenchanted NFLers who haven't played out their options but are willing to sign "future" contracts with the new league. Saffeyman Richmond Flowers, running back Charley Evans and linebacker John Douglas of the New York Giants have committed themselves to that course.

Many of the 480 NFL players who will be drafted have no intentions of ever leaving the senior circuit. The WFL, however, wants many of the name National Football League players assigned to a team in case they want to jump leagues in the future. The move is designed to prevent several WFL teams from trying to sign the same player.

Elliott's contract with the Jets officially expires May 1 and there are reports the big defensive tackle is ready to sign a $100,000 pact with the New York Stars. A $35,000 salaryed lineman with the Jets last season, Elliott is said to have asked the NFL club for $80,000 in 1974.

Stars Coach Babe Parilli,

Cowens to miss Celtics' trip

BOSTON (UPI) — Dave Cowens, center for the division champion Boston Celtics, will not accompany the National Basketball Association team on its next road trip, beginning Tuesday in Houston, the club announced today.

Cowens is suffering from calcification on his left arm, a team spokesman said.

once a backup quarterback to Joe Namath, recalls Elliott's bone-jarring tackles when they were teammates on the Jets. So does New York player-coach George Sauer.

The Stars also hold the rights to Namath, who has indicated he may play out his option next season.

The WFL, starting out with only 10 head coaches and a franchise to be named later, claims it has signed over 650 players, including such college stars as lineman Brooker Brown and back James McAlister of Southern California and UCLA back Kermit Johnson.

The franchise cities include Birmingham, Detroit, Chicago, Florida, Hawaii, Houston, New York, Philadelphia, Southern California, Toronto and Washington. The 12th franchise was originally given to New York, but when the Boston charter was transferred here, it left one team still to be located. Portland, Ore., and Mexico are the frontrunners for the remaining franchise.

Gary Davidson, league founder who also started the American Basketball Association and the World Hockey Association, said he was "confident that a significant number of early round draft selections will come aboard the WFL."

Davidson was rewarded with the Philadelphia franchise for founding the league and made a giant profit by selling the club to former AAU president Jack Kelly, the brother of Princess Grace of Monaco, for $750,000.

The WFL plans to kick off its season on July 10 and wind up league play around Thanksgiving Day.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The Daytona International Speedway announced Wednesday the 1974 24 Hours of Daytona sports car endurance race has been cancelled for this year.

The race was originally scheduled Feb. 2-3, but was postponed in hopes of drawing more foreign entries for a July race and also because of the fuel shortage.

High school choirs schedule festival

AZUSA — The "1974 Community Cultural Season" at Azusa Pacific College will open with the second annual High School Choir Festival in the Turner Campus Center at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Performing choirs are Walnut, Azusa, Alta Loma, Ontario Christian, Edgewood, Corona, Fallbrook, Rancho Alamitos, and Gladstone high schools. Admission is free.

The second event scheduled for March is the annual Azusa Pacific College Opera Workshop, which this year will present Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi" on the evenings of March 29 and 30, in the auditorium of the campus center. The workshop will offer performances each evening at 7 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. with general admission $1.

April will be highlighted by two productions—a benefit concert featuring the entire music department and the annual spring concert of the Azusa Pacific College Oratorio Chorus.

The benefit concert will be held April 20, at 8 p.m. in Turner Campus Center. Each of the college's touring music groups, both vocal and instrumental, will perform. Admission for this "first-ever" event is $2. Proceeds from the concert will go toward the college's expanding music program.

"The Ordering of Moses" by Nathaniel Dett will be performed by the Oratorio Chorus April 28 at 3 p.m. in the center. The 140-plus voice chorus is made up entirely of Azusa Pacific students. Admission is free. A freewill offering will be taken.

Seek singers for 'Messiah' presentation

CLAREMONT — Pomona Valley singlers are invited to join a chorus to give a concert of the Easter portion of Handel's "Messiah" at the United Church of Christ, Congregational, on Palm Sunday, April 7.

There will be no auditions, and all are invited to participate. Six familiar choruses including "Hallelujah" and "Worthy Is the Lamb" will highlight the 4 p.m. service. A feature will be the aria, "Come unto Me" sung by all sopranos and altos in unison. Accompaniment will be by organ, string orchestra and flutes. Soloists will be Georgia Warden, soprano; Donald Bowers, baritone; and Dean Fowler, tenor.

Louis Ronfeldt will direct the performance, and William G. Blanchard, professor emeritus at Pomona College and well-known composer and organist, will be at the console.

Rehearsals are scheduled for March 24 at 4, March 31 and April 7 at 2 in the church sanctuary. Participants are asked to bring their copies of the "Messiah," but copies of the chorus parts will be available for $1.25.

Information is provided on surgery by laser beam

I understand there is a new technique being used that has definite advantages over surgery in the treatment of cataracts. It is the laser beam. I have heard that there is no hospital stay, there are no incisions and there is a shorter healing time with good to excellent results.

Please let me know, if you can, whether the sketchy information I have is accurate.

San Dimas Community Hospital has a laser but I have been unsuccessful in obtaining the name of an ophthalmologist.

I would like the name and address of a doctor anywhere in our area who is using this method.—R.L., La Verne.

Although the laser beam at San Dimas Community Hospital is used for other eye surgery, it is not used for cataract extraction.

David Robinson, hospital administrator, tells us that the instrument which is used is a Phako-emulsifier. There is a hospital stay but the patient is able to return to work and other normal activities faster than has been true with other methods.

Robinson said the question about an incision was too technical for him to answer. He advised you to consult your physician.

Hospital representatives gave us the names of two ophthalmologists in this area and we gave them to you.

I went to Arizona for the winter. My first week there I was invited to attend a health spa on Nov. 7, 1973.

The people at the spa informed me that by joining on that day I would receive one year free after the first year of membership.

No explanation was given me about cancellation.

The copy of the contract enclosed has not been signed by me.

I went the following week to take a treatment. Afterward, my right leg was swollen and very painful.

My niece took me to a doctor in Tucson. He gave me a thorough examination and treatment and advised me against any further treatments at the spa.

I called the people at the spa immediately about my condition and the doctor's finding. They said they would put a notation on my agreement and possibly I could continue at a later date.

The spa offers no facilities near me.

Now I have received a letter from the manager saying there is no provision for sale, cancellation or transfer of membership.

It states that the contract does provide for an indefinite extension of time missed due to illness or absence from a city where facilities are available. Payments, however, are not extended and must be made promptly, according to the manager.

Do I have to pay for the rest of the membership?—Mrs. B.B., Pomona.

You sent us a copy of a contract with the spa. As you said, it did not show your signature.

In the contract was a paragraph which permitted cancellation for disability with a fee of $50. The deferred payment price of the course was $265.

After we wrote to the manager, he wrote to you offering to settle in full your membership in return for a letter from your physician to verify your medical disability, your membership card and a $25 medical cancellation fee.

You decided to accept this offer since you remembered signing "something" when you joined the spa.

Where do I write to obtain birth certificate copies in Los Angeles County?—J.R., Ontario.

Write to the Los Angeles County Recorder, 227 N. Broadway, Los Angeles, 90012.

Records of births anywhere in California as far back as July 1, 1905, can be obtained by writing to the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health, 744 P St., Sacramento, 95814. The fee is $2.

For records before that date, inquiries should be directed to the county recorder in the county of birth.

Information needed is the date of birth, name, father's name, mother's maiden name, and the hospital or city.

The Los Angeles County Recorder has birth records dating back to 1880.

Sheriff's department will be reorganized, Pitchess says

LOS ANGELES — Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess announced a major reorganiza-

Staff members of Casa Colina attend workshop

POMONA — Staff members of the Casa Colina Hospital Claremont College Preschool for Handicapped Children participated in the recent winter workshop of the California Association of Marriage and Family Counselors in Los Angeles.

"The Role of the Marriage, Family and Child Counselor in a Program for Handicapped Children," was the title of the symposium presented by the Casa Colina group.

Participating from the school staff were Dr. Elizabeth Neumann of Claremont, director of the preschool; Alan Leavitt, director of graduate student field placement in counseling, La Verne College; Shirley Acosta and Steven Diamond; Linda Brekken, education therapist intern; and Mrs. Barbara Acord, home-school curriculum coordinator for the preschool.

zation of the sheriff's department "as of now" and said the changes are intended to keep pace with the times while keeping the level of efficiency and service at a high point.

Pitchess said the changes will not result in any additional expense to the taxpayer.

Although the patrol and detective divisions will not be affected, Pitchess said there will be a major and significant change by the merger of the jail and corrections operations of the department into a single custody division. The move is designed to increase the coordination and effectiveness of both activities.

The second major change is the creation of a special services division under the office of the undersheriff. The new division will have three areas of responsibility: special operations, fiscal planning and community relations.

No additional staff will be required, the sheriff said.

Turning to motorcycle to stretch gas?

Police chief warns of hazards

POMONA — The current energy shortage may turn some persons to motorcycle riding in their attempt to stretch gasoline mileage, Police Chief Forest P. Wallick said today, and he suggested that such persons be aware of the hazards involved.

First, the chief said, 21.3 per cent of the nation's 2,747 motorcycle deaths occurred in California where the ratio of deaths and injuries for motorcyclists in accidents was 1 out of 35 compared to 1 out of 61 in other types of vehicular crashes.

However, the drivers of other types of vehicles were at fault in 60 per cent of the multi-vehicle death or injury accidents in which motorcycles also were involved, Wallick said, and he added that difficulty in seeing motorcycles appears to be a major factor in collisions between cars and motorcycles.

But that problem decreases dramatically when motorcyclists use their headlights during daytime driving, he said. He also noted that riders with less than six months' experience have an accident rate double that of more experienced riders.

Valid and reliable statistics are not available on which to calculate a motorcycle mileage death rate, Wallick said, but an estimate shows the 1971 California motorcycle mileage death rate to have been 15.5 fatalities per 100 million miles driven, compared to 3.7 for other types of motor vehicles.

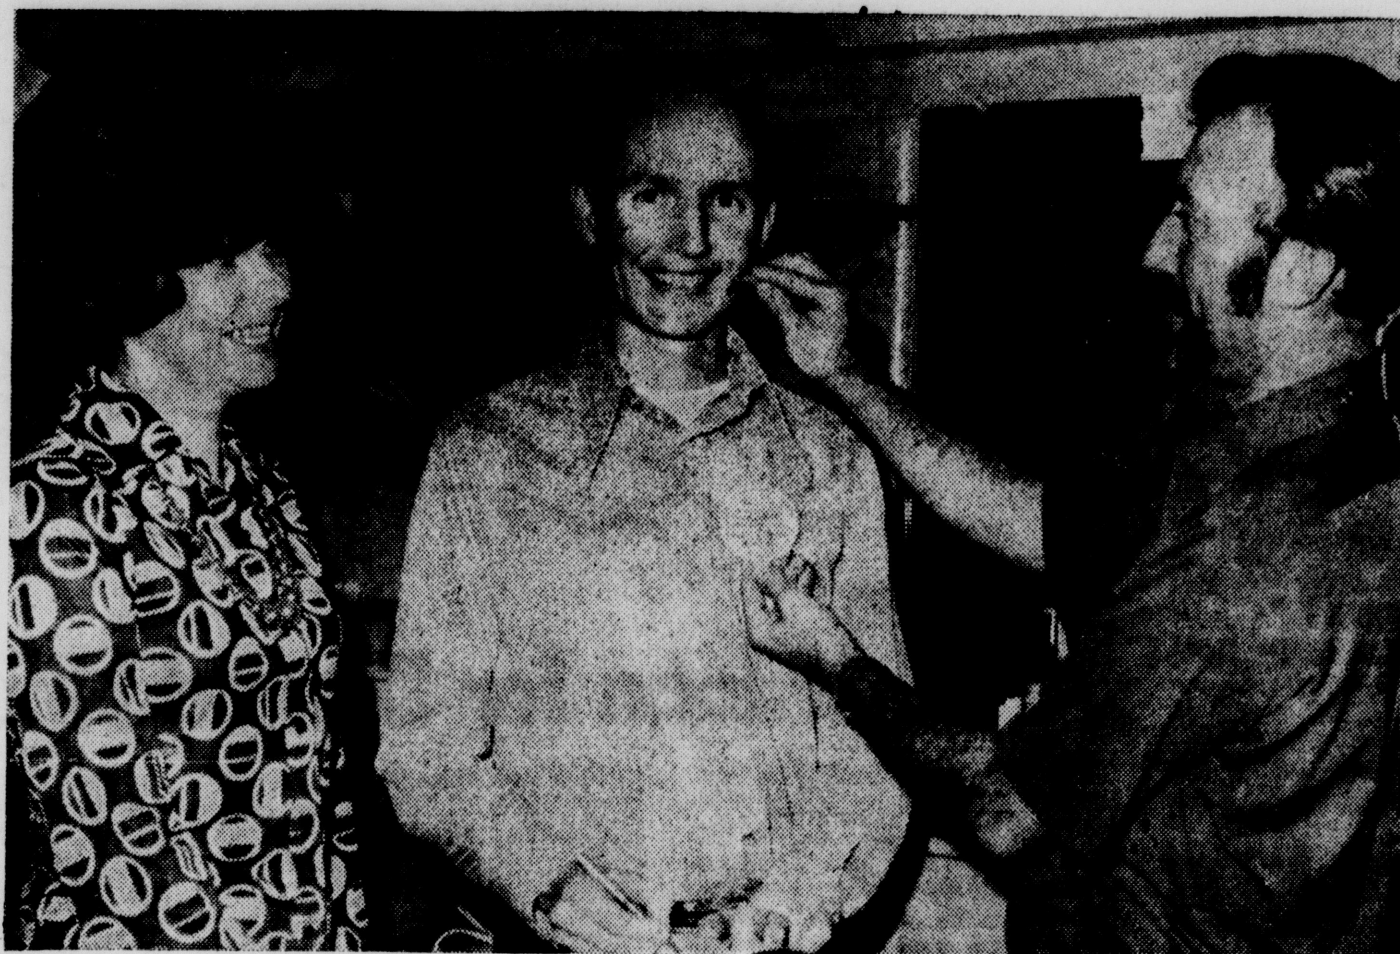

Statistics showed however, that motorcycle deaths were decreased when helmets were worn and they also revealed that in California, 25 per cent of motorcyclists involved in accidents wore helmets.

Wallick said that figures also showed that 50 per cent of the motorcyclists killed in California did not have motorcycle endorsements on their drivers licenses.

Motorcycling had been increasing rapidly even before the energy shortage, Wallick said. He pointed out that during the last three years, registration of such vehicles has risen 15 per cent.

The sources of his statistics were the California Highway Patrol, Motorcycle Industry Council and the state Department of Motor Vehicles, Wallick said.

Assembly candidate says crises are issue

COVINA — Jerry Jordan says he is a Democratic candidate in the 62nd Assembly District contest because "it is time that the faith of the people is restored in government."

Jordan, a resident of Covina for the past 15 years, is employed by Bell and Howell in Pasadena in an administrative capacity.

"When the majority of the people no longer believe what their President says and when it is assumed that the energy crisis is contrived, and the gasoline shortage is merely a device to obtain more profits for large corporations, it is time to correct this situation," the candidate said.

Jordan said all of this can be accomplished by putting in office people who truly wish to close the "credibility gap."

He said the nation is confronted with such problems as high property taxes, pollution, better benefits for senior citizens, better public schools and the cost of government.

"Added to these are the most recently developed beef crisis, gasoline crisis, wheat crisis, unemployment crisis and the high cost of living," he said that each new day seems to bring along a new crisis.

Jordan said "I intend to represent the people of the 62nd District and the state in a manner consistent with their best interests. I intend to be a legislator that heads off a crisis before it begins."

The candidate received his law degree from Glendale University. He is a member of the American Bar Association and the California Trial Lawyers.

The new 62nd Assembly District includes Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Charter Oak, Glendora, Covina and West Covina.

EARTHQUAKE STUDY

La Puerta School Principal Gabe Damico watches as a backhoe operator digs a 12-foot deep trench into which F. Beach Leighton and Associates placed sounding equipment to determine proximity of the Claremont school to the Sierra

Penalty waived for delinquent traffic tickets

POMONA — Delinquent traffic tickets may be paid without penalty during the month of April here, James H. Platt, presiding judge of the Pomona Municipal Court said today.

The action is similar to one in the city of Los Angeles where persons who have failed to appear to answer their traffic citations may do so without being assessed a penalty for their late appearance.

The program is an attempt by both courts to clear the backlog of delinquent traffic tickets. After April, however, those who still have failed to appear face the likelihood that warrants will be issued for their arrest—an action which generally results in a fine.

Persons who wish to take advantage of the program may appear in traffic court weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Court also is open Tuesday evenings from 6 to 7:30 for those who work during the day. The courthouse is at 350 W. Mission Blvd.

MARY ESCOBAR, who holds the title of California Dairy Princess, will visit the Greater Pomona Kiwanis Club Wednesday at 7:30 a.m. Sponsored by the dairy farmers in the state, the princess spends a full year traveling in California to broadcast the message: "Milk Has Something For Everybody." Miss Escobar, 21, is the daughter of a Gilroy dairy farmer.

New credibility gap in Watergate

President Nixon's press conference declaration that the House of Representatives could not impeach him without first finding evidence that he had violated criminal law confirmed earlier reports from Washington that he did not expect to be impeached because he is sure no such evidence exists.

Although the House Judiciary Committee has taken a much broader view of what are legal causes for impeachment, the President's expressed confidence lend weight to some rather startling recent revelations vitally affecting the case that is being built up against him.

The revelations concern what is generally considered to be probably the strongest evidence of possible criminal interference with justice by the President or at least by one of a few of his closest aides.

That is the much publicized 18 minute gap in one of the key Watergate tapes.

Judge John Sirica's panel of electronic experts gave their opinion, after much research, that the gap had to have been caused by manual erasure. Now comes evidence that the Uher 5000 recorder used by Presidential secretary Rose Mary Wood actually was defective in such a way that it could indeed have created the gap of malfunction.

In his syndicated column Washington commentator Joseph Alsop has cited the esteemed magazine Science as revealing the fact that not only was the Uher defective but it admittedly was repaired by the panel of experts who in this way, no doubt innocently, "physically altered in a most material way . . . a most material piece of evidence."

Further, their testimony that a malfunction could not have been the cause of the gap was based, Alsop says, on tests made on a different brand of machine which does not have certain peculiarities possessed by the Uher — peculiarities which can cause the sort of malfunction that could have created the gap in the tape.

If Science and Alsop are correct, the House Judiciary Committee has an imperative duty to study this purported evidence most thoroughly. There seems to be a new credibility gap in the Watergate case.

An economy that rules the rulers

President Nixon repeatedly talks of toughness. But it is precisely his fear of confrontation and his unwillingness to make decisions that are in considerable measure responsible for the economic uncertainty this nation faces today.

This uncertainty shows in industry's unwillingness to invest at the level necessary to spark the economy and in a widespread consumer reluctance to buy that seriously threatens a recession. It is seen too in spectacular price rises not connected with the energy problem.

Mr. Nixon does well, as in foreign affairs, when he has a strong and determined man at the helm. Dr. Henry Kissinger takes authority and runs with it, carrying the President with him.

But Mr. Nixon has had no such determined man in charge of domestic programs — neither Daniel Moynihan, nor John Ehrlichman nor Melvin Laird.

Therefore, the President's efforts to curb inflation, reduce unemployment and assure economic stability have been quick fixes too often dictated by public pressure. Nixon's men, while talking of tough, unpopular solutions, have reacted to immediate public pressure, adopting inflation-damping measures which they knew most certainly would fail, but which at the time seemed likely to convince business, labor and consumers that strong steps were being taken in their behalf.

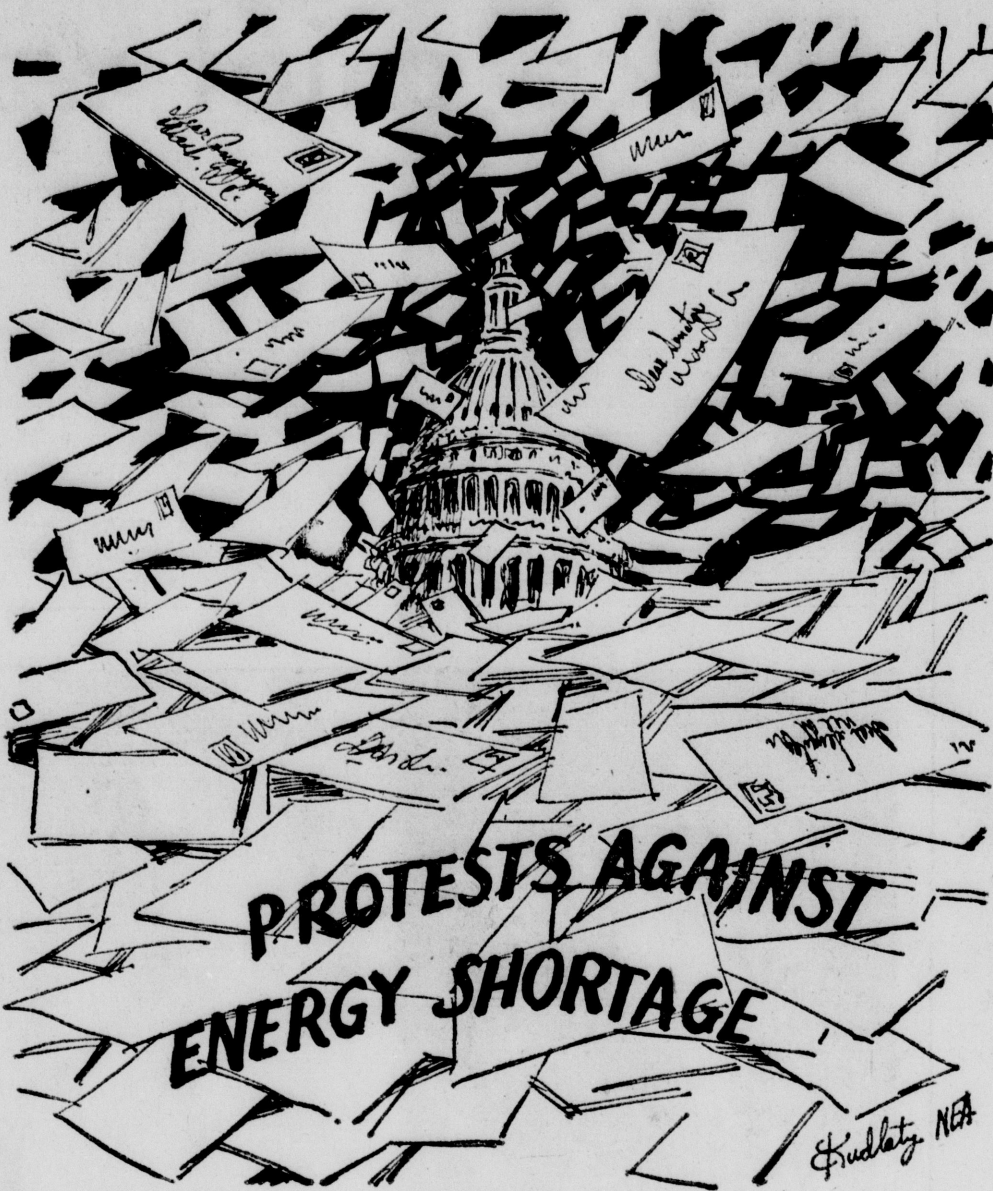

In the interest of fairness, it must be pointed out that it became clear to Mr. Nixon and his advisers some time back that familiar economic theories do not hold water in today's world, if they ever did. Most are so subjective and based on such shaky philosophical bases, that each economic expert tends to pick the theory which appeals to him emotionally.

As one admittedly biased economist has put it, much of the time controls "have been employed as a blunt instrument, not tailored to particular situations and problems, with insufficient knowledge of their economic effects, and with little or no attention to the extent of compliance."

There is no discernible economic policy. The administration seems to follow one theory one month and another the next. On analysis, it is rather that several conflicting policies have been followed at the same time in a desperate effort to cope with a series of crises. Mr. Nixon has hoppedskipped from the very conservative Arthur Burns to the very liberal John Kenneth Galbraith and back to the conservative Milton Friedman all in the same year or two.

Industrial managers, farmers, investors and individual consumers can plan, invest their money in products and expand production intelligently in this day when government actions have such great influence on our lives, only if they are assured of some governmental continuity of purpose and seasonably stable economic programs over a period of years. But if they are uncertain what the government will do next, they retrench blindly. Retrenchment based on fear usually leads to recessions or depressions.

Another loan for Donald Nixon

WASHINGTON — Donald Nixon, the President's likeable, loquacious, wheeler-dealer brother, got a $100,000 personal loan from a California builder at a time when the builder was seeking federal business.

This is the second substantial loan which Donald Nixon has wangled from government contractors. In late 1956, while his brother was Vice President, Donald secured a $205,000 loan from billionaire defense contractor Howard Hughes.

Our disclosure of the Hughes loan became a major issue in Richard Nixon's defeats for president in 1960 and governor of California in 1962.

Now we have learned that Donald received a $100,000 check, dated August 4, 1971, from Lloyd Hallamore, then president of Hallamore Homes, Inc..

Securities and Exchange Commission records show that in July 1971, Donald was also appointed a director of a closely affiliated Hallamore firm, San-Bar Electronics Corp.

My associate, George Clifford, infiltrated a Hallamore meeting in July 1971 and heard Donald Nixon boast of his efforts to get contracts to build Hallamore homes.

The firm wound up a few months later with a $4,721,000 subcontract to construct modular homes at 18 Air Force bases. But the firm's president, Harold Anderson, who is also Lloyd Hallamore's son-in-law, denied that Don Nixon had anything to do with arranging the Air Force contract.

Reluctantly conceding that a $100,000 personal loan had been made, Anderson insisted to us: "The loan had absolutely nothing to do with the operation of Hallamore, Inc." The $100,000, he also swore, has been repaid.

Meanwhile, we have discovered that President Nixon's former aide, John Ehrlichman, personally checked on the Hallamore firm because of Don Nixon's investment. Ehrlichman traveled with presidential pal Bebe Rebozo to make a quiet survey of the Hallamore operations in California at about the time Don Nixon got the loan.

We wrote about Don's dealings with the Hallamores but never learned until now about the $100,000 loan. Its exact purpose still remains a mystery.

FOOTNOTE: Don Nixon and Lloyd Hallamore could not be reached for comment.

SECRET STRATEGY: The environmental laws will be suspended to permit the development of any project related to "energy or its uses" if President Nixon's secret strategy is successful.

This would mean atomic plant construction, offshore oil drilling and shale and strip mining could be pursued without any safeguards or public recourse.

The strategy to undermine environmental laws in the name of the energy crisis is being plotted behind closed doors in the byzantine old Executive Office Building next to the White House. We have gone behind those doors to get the story.

At the latest session, deputy budget chief Frank Zarb presided. He outlined five options for the group to discuss, including a proposal from the President that the National Environmental Policy Act be suspended for projects relating to energy.

Russell Peterson, head of the Council on Environmental Quality, broke in to demand why they needed to discuss the options at all. When, he demanded, had environmental concerns ever stopped an important energy project? No one could come up with a single example.

Clearing his throat, Undersecretary of the Interior John Whitaker, a former oil executive suggested that instead of suspending the environmental act that they move merely to change the environmental guidelines. This would produce the same result with less uproar.

White House aide Richard Fairbanks interrupted with a loud complaint about "environmental kooks." He snorted: "When the lights go out, people don't give a damn about the environment."

Yet Fairbanks, incredibly, is President Nixon's top aide for environmental affairs.

The Federal Energy Office's representative, Eric Zausner, who came in late, was asked by Zarb what FEO thought about suspending the environmental act. At his bureaucratic best, Zausner said his agency needed a week or so to think it over.

Zarb quickly closed the meeting, saying that because FEO needed more time to mull over the problem, they would meet again on March 13th.

Gossip for today

I've been reading lately that scientists and ecologists claim they have finally discovered a fool-proof method for solving the world's refuse disposal problem. They propose to use the stuff as fuel to produce heat and energy. —Well, more power to them! But even though I am a great admirer of the brilliant thinking of our scientists and ecologists, I must in all fairness insist on asking: So what's so new about that? After all, shouldn't we give credit where credit is due? That idea dates back to the days of my great-great-grandfather who was one of the enterprising conservationists who used buffalo chips to provide the energy needed for heating and cooking.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

November success could hurt in '76

WASHINGTON — The Democrats, still many months away from winning the massive congressional victory widely forecast for them in the 1974 elections, already are worrying about the burdens such a triumph would impose.

They seem unlikely to get the "veto-proof" margins some of their optimists talk about for both House and Senate. But they could come close enough to make it certain Americans would assign them heavy responsibility for constructive action on policy in the politically vital 1974-76 span.

Old pro Sen. Hubert Humphrey is one of those who perceives the problem. And he knows it is magnified by the fact that the structure and mechanisms of Congress are antiquated, with its pace increasingly snail-like.

Nothing new in such an assertion, yet it is freshly pertinent to the Democrats as they look ahead.

Every political analyst in town has been saying for a long time that the Democratic party is almost totally bereft of new ideas. Even Sen. George McGovern the 1972 presidential nominee, fell back into well-worn New Deal grooves after his disastrous venturing into welfare reform and uncharted defense-cut areas left him pinned with the label "radical."

A good many Democrats, though far from all the McGovern-style activists, gaze hopefully toward the party's mid-term convention this December in Kansas City. It will be ostensibly issue-oriented.

Yet the 1976 candidates will be scrambling there, and the combat over ideas seems sure to move into personal channels. Television will highlight this conflict, since it finds no profit in pictures of ideas.

Anyway, back to the original point. As badly as they need fresh philosophy, the call on a more heavily Democratic 1975-76 Congress will be for action. If this fall's voting is largely a negative referendum on President Nixon, the people who pronounce that verdict will want something hard put on the line.

As Humphrey notes well, if they don't get some kind of better delivery on matters like energy, the economy generally, health care, an improved welfare system, they might give the Democrats short shrift.

Their roster of presidential prospects, all presently drawn from the U.S. Senate, could feel a hard backlash if the party's lawmakers haven't by then done all that much to get the country out of its current rash of dilemmas.

Nixon the man won't be in the 1976 calculations, even if he avoids impeachment and finishes his second term. So an electorate perhaps newly disillusioned by Congress, which polls now show it has little more regard for than the President, might see another Republican as a reasonable follow-on choice.

Note, too, that none of the leading GOP possibilities would be tightly linked to the Congress of 1975-76. Vice President Gerald Ford would have put his House background behind him by nearly three years. The other contenders, Nelson Rockefeller, Ronald Reagan, John Connally, Elliot Richardson, have governorship or other executive-style experience. One or another among these could look pretty attractive to the U.S. electorate in the unpredictable issue-mix and political climate of 1976.

One of the consequences of widening disillusion is that people may become annoyed enough to switch frantically about on short notice in search of real answers. Hence the Democrats may win big this fall at their peril.

Chino High needs aide in car class

CHINO — Larry Thornton, vocational arts instructor at Chino High School, is looking for a community person to serve as an instructional aide in auto repair.

"The auto mechanics class is beginning to see daylight," said Thornton. "Now we need to get our instruction concentrated in specific areas so that the students can become employable."

"The areas where students need the most help and training are in tuneup, car servicing, brakes and front-end alignment. I need someone to help on a one-to-one basis," he continued.

The school district has allotted an hourly wage for the position. "Age is not necessarily a factor. We just need a good man who knows his job and would like to work with some good kids," said Thornton.

He added that a part-time volunteer is also needed to handle clerical duties. Those interested in either position should contact Thornton at 627-5314.

Social action unit forms to aid West End poor

UPLAND — Formation of Proyecto Accion Social (PAS)—which means Social Action Project—has been announced.

Its prime aims, leaders said, are the social, political and economic development of the poor of all races.

PAS is a nonprofit corporation guided by a 20-man board. Vincent Rodriguez is president and Armondo Navarro is vice president. Under this parent umbrella, a seven-member policy board administers programs.

PAS's first program is a walk-in drug center at 869½ E. Foothill Blvd. with a staff of four funded under a $17,000 federal grant from the National Institute of Mental Health through the West End Drug Abuse Coordinating Council.

Gus Ramos is director of the center. Working with him are Alfonso Navarro, job development specialist and Arturo Ayala and Clarence Romero, counselors.

During February the center served 47 addicts, 12 Anglos, 5 blacks and 30 Mexican-Americans. Ramos said 85 per cent were heroin addicts.

At the center, "para-professionals under the supervision of professionals provide a variety of social and psychological services," said Ramos.

Romero explained these services as intervention with law enforcement agencies in the client's behalf, coordinating services of social agencies, job counseling and placement, securing vocational training, housing, welfare information, psychological and intelligence testing and marriage counseling. Also provided are emergency medical treatment, and tutoring. The center provides speakers for community and school meetings.

"The center makes an attempt to assist the addict in discovering his potentials and finding his own road to self-actualization," said Ramos.

PAS operates on the premise, according to Armondo Navarro, that people should be made aware of available social services. Its primary purpose is to enhance the social welfare of the people by providing a variety of services in an effort to rectify and alleviate existing social problems.

"The social action orientation of PAS coupled with the experience and expertise of its membership, provides it a unique capability of developing an effective approach towards social inequities," said Navarro.

He said future plans call for PAS to branch into legal aid assistance, housing and perhaps banking.

"It is our intent to create change, and eliminate apathy," said Navarro.

PAS was incorporated in 1973. It is an outgrowth of the West End Mexican American Political Association (MAPA) and La Raza Unida, Navarro said.

"WHERE FOOD IS MADE WITH BUTTER 'N' LOVE"

An evening at Claremont's CASA RAMON with the Tarahumara dancers is F.U.N.!

We entertained guests from the East - this is really an exciting experience for folks who have not had the chance to enjoy Mexican food and dancing. The dancers are young, full of life, and beautiful to watch. They perform in colorful authentic costumes which they have made themselves. The group was banded together by Gloria Brooks for the sole purpose of keeping alive the real Mexican culture. On Sundays complete shows are performed at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights dancers perform at 7:30 p.m. The food is completely authentic, too. A great combination.
